First Lord of Admiralty in Report to Commons Says No Hope for Buried Men

PLYMOUTH, Eng., July 9.—(UP)—Great Britain's newest battleship, Rodney, with a destroyer flotilla is rushing toward Fishguard on the coast of Pembroke, Wales, from Torquay to assist in the salvage of the British submarine H-47 which sank this morning after a collision with the British submarine L-12.

LONDON, July 9.—(UP)—Hope has been abandoned for the possible rescue of nearly a score of men imprisoned at sea bottom early today in the British submarine H-47. The H-47 collided with the British submarine L-12, 22 miles off the coast of Pembroke, Wales, in the Irish sea and sank.

First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander told the house of commons there was no hope for the remainder of the crew of the H-47 two of whom were rescued.

The H-47 submarine of the British navy, whose normal complement is 23 officers and men, sank. Two of those aboard were rescued.

The L-12 with which the H-47 collided has a complement of about 50 officers and men. One of its crew is missing and another is in a critical condition.

Orange County Man Held In Jail At L.A.

Arrested on Suspicion of Manslaughter Following Fatal Collision

FOLLOWING the death of a passenger in the car he was driving, when the car overturned after a collision in Los Angeles yesterday, Allen Swadley, oil worker, of 208 West Whiting avenue, Fullerton, was arrested and held on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter by Los Angeles police.

The victim of the crash, Elmer Lind, 50, a cattle buyer of Lamar, Colorado, was instantly killed, according to reports from Los Angeles, when the car, which witnesses told police was traveling at a high rate of speed, turned over twice following the collision. Lind's head was said to have been sheared off above the ears when the car after striking a traffic button, crashed over on the pavement and slid.

Mrs. Alma A. Irwin, 22, of 117 Los Angeles street, Anaheim, also a passenger in the car, was taken to the Georgia street receiving hospital suffering concussion of the brain, a broken shoulder and lacerations. The crash occurred at the intersection of Fifth street and Fremont avenue, when Swadley's car collided with an automobile driven by Bert White, 2930 Griffith Park avenue.

Swadley was arrested on the suspicion of manslaughter charge by Detective Lieutenant A. B. Hickey, of the central homicide detail, following a preliminary investigation conducted by the police. An inquest into Lind's death had been ordered and it will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. White was also ordered to appear at the inquest.

MEDICAL ADS CONDEMNED IN PORTLAND TALK

Retiring Head of American Medical Society Reads Paper at Meeting

PORTLAND, Ore., July 9.—The practice of medicine by corporations and clinics, other than those controlled by doctors themselves, was a paramount issue today before the 80th annual convention of the American Medical association here.

Dr. Louis E. Schmidt was here attempting, apparently unsuccessfully, however, to have the convention hear his appeal from discharge from the Chicago medical society.

A resolution condemning the practice of medicine by agencies other than doctors was under consideration by the committee on resolutions.

Dr. William S. Thayer, retiring president, delivered the association's "big Bertha," against medical advertising of all classes, saying that "of each 1000 medical advertisements, 999 are misleading."

Dr. Schmidt, who was banned by the Chicago society for his connection with the public health institute of Chicago, an advertising organization, headed by many prominent persons including Harold F. McCormick, refused to comment.

"I have written the convention and asked that it consider my appeal," Dr. Schmidt said, "until I receive some communication from it. I have no comment to make."

Elks To Elect New Officers During Today

Ten Drill Teams from Various Parts of Nation In Competition

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(UP)—Col. Walter Pemberton Andrews, Atlanta, Ga., was elected grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E. in grand lodge session of the sixty-fifth national convention here today.

Atlanta, Ga., was selected as the site for next year's convention.

L Election of national officers held the momentary interest today of the thousands of Elks in convention here.

Most of the candidates, however, already were conceded their respective positions. Colonel Walter Pemberton Andrews, of Atlanta, Ga., was almost certain to become grand exalted ruler, and J. Edgar Masters of Charleston, Pa., had his re-election as grand secretary practically assured.

In such a manner Fred W. Wellman, of Oakland, became chief of the California Elks' association yesterday. Into office with him went Vice Presidents Stanley Mansour, of Orange, for California south; Carl Shipke, of Santa Barbara, for south central; F. H. Dayton, of Salinas, for central; William Allen, of Porterville, for central; E. S. Tomasi, Petaluma, bay district; and Fred Helken, Marysville, north district. Richard C. Benbough of San Diego and C. W. Hays of Sacramento were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Having dispensed with elections, the antlered brethren turned to something more competitive. In the Coliseum, some ten drill teams hot-footed across the sward in quest of national honors. Among those 10, and noticeable at every moment, were the Jackson, Mich. Zouaves.

$150,000,000 DEFICIT SEEN BY HEAD OF P. O.

Hoover Orders Probe to Determine How Department Can Keep Abreast

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(UP)—A postal deficit in excess of $100,000,000 and which may run as high as $150,000,000 has been forecast by Postmaster General Brown, who said the department is making every effort to reduce the deficit below that figure.

The deficit will be "unusually large this year because of a $51,000,000 payment to the railroads on account of back railway mail pay allowed by an Interstate Commerce commission decision and upheld by the supreme court some months ago."

President Hoover has ordered an investigation to determine how the department can be made self-sustaining.

The president regards the post-office department as a business institution, and feels the treasury should not be called upon to make up the steadily increasing annual deficits.

Although the approach to the problem will not be decided until after the postoffice investigation is completed, the administration has indicated great interest in postal rates on some classes of matter offer the most likely solution.

Although the president has advanced no specific program for increased revenue, fiscal experts of the department have given attention to the prospect of increasing parcel post rates on packages of large dimensions and also the possibility of asking congress for higher rates on bulky printed matter.

Supply Of Gas Is Exhausted At Santander

Two Americans Encounter Stiff Head Winds; Fail to Reach Goal

SANTANDER, Spain, July 9.—(UP)—The American plane Pathfinder bearing Roger G. Williams and Louis Yancey landed here at 9:30 p. m.

The plane, bound from Old Orchard, Me., for Rome, was forced down with gasoline tanks almost empty.

Williams and Yancey had battled a strong northeast wind since considerably west of the European coast and had used up more gasoline than they had intended.

A strong tail wind in the earlier part of their journey, however, caused them to be nearly 220 miles ahead of their schedule when they were forced down.

The plane had passed in front of the Port of Llanes, in Asturias province, east of Santander, at 4:47 p. m. (2:47 E.D.T.) 29 minutes before they found a landing place near here at 9:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m. E.D.T.)

The combination of the strong northeast wind into whose teeth they were battling their way coupled with the fact that the weight of the plane had to be lightened by the jettisoning of gasoline at the takeoff yesterday morning at Old Orchard Beach, Me., robbed the flyers of their goal. The flyers had started with 500 gallons of fuel but were forced to throw overboard 50 gallons to gain height enough to take off on their road to Rome.

STANDARD WILL RE-OPEN GLASS PLANT IN S. A.

Order Placed for Shipment of $90,000 in Equipment for Factory

COINCIDENT with an order placed for a shipment of new equipment representing an investment of approximately $90,000 to be used by the Standard American Glass company of Santa Ana, rumors were current here today to the effect that the plant, which has been inactive for more than two years, is making plans for the resumption of activities.

Fred A. Dixon, president and general manager of the company, announced today that negotiations for the sale of the local plant, located in the southeast section of the city, to eastern glass companies have been dropped and that the plant will continue to be operated by the local management.

Coupled with the report of the re-opening of the Standard American Glass company were rumors that two large eastern glass manufacturing concerns have been regarding Santa Ana for some time with a view to locating here. One of the concerns has gone so far as to order a survey made of local conditions, it was announced today.

No definite statement could be learned from the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today in regard to the rumored activities. With the full operation of the Standard American Glass company, the building of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, recently purchasing property here, and the continued operation of the Brock Glass company, and the Santa Ana Glass company, Santa Ana is fast becoming a center for the largest glass manufacturing companies in the country.

CULVER CITY AVIATORS TO KEEP GOING

SHOOT AT 400 HOURS

Good Flying Conditions Prevail Today as Bird-Men Start Eighth Day

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 9.—(UP)—The biplane Angeleno, piloted by Loren Mendell and Pete Reinhart, established a new world's endurance flight record here this afternoon.

When the four passenger cabin plane circles over the Culver City airport at 2:30:29 p. m. It had been in the air consecutively for 175 hours and 59 seconds.

This time exceeded by one hour, as required by regulations governing competitive flying, the mark of 174 hours and 59 seconds set in Cleveland last Saturday by Bryon Newcomb and Roy Mitchell.

As they set the new record Mendell and Reinhart signalled to the field that all was well, indicating they intended to follow their announced plan of attempting to remain aloft at least 200 hours.

Mendell and Reinhart, comparatively unknown aviators a little more than a week ago, took off on Tuesday, July 2, at 7:29:30 from the local field.

TRIBUNE PLANE IS AT PORT BURWELL

CHICAGO, July 9.—(UP)—The Chicago Tribune received a dispatch today from the "Unit" bowler, amphibian plane bound for Berlin, stating the plane landed at Port Burwell on Cape Chidley at 6:10 a. m. today and that the plane was held to the ground by bad weather.

"Battled for last two days with storms," the message said. "We were down 40 miles south of here for 36 hours."

The message, the first received from the fliers since last Friday, was signed by Robert Wood, staff member of the Tribune aboard the ship. It added that atmospheric conditions probably would prevent sending a complete account of the flight to date.

WRECKED PLANE AND DEAD FLYER FOUND

HEBER CITY, Utah, July 9.—(UP)—A wrecked plane bearing the number 4498 and the body of the dead pilot, believed to be Masashi Goto, Los Angeles Japanese aviator, were located by sheriff's officer today.

The body was badly decomposed and indicated the crash had occurred several days ago, the officers reported. An undertaker has been sent to bring the body to Heber City.

Goto took off for Reno, Nev., from the Oakland airport at Oakland on July 3 in a plane designed and built by himself in Los Angeles. He passed through Salt Lake City on July 4 and had not been reported since.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS SHOW HUGE DECLINE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(UP)—The mounting toll of automobile deaths received a check in San Francisco for the 12 months ending June 30, the report of Coroner T. W. B. Leland showed today.

Traffic accidents took a toll of 122 lives in the year just ended, while in the previous year the total was 146.

The so-called deadly street intersection cost 54 of these lives, while 65 were killed between intersections. Pedestrians were in the majority of victims, 30 of them being killed, while 17 drivers and 17 passengers were killed.

Only nine women drove cars figuring in 120 accidents.

MILLION IN OPIUM SEIZED IN LUGGAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(UP)—Instructions to deliver to United States Attorney George Hatfield more than $1,000,000 in opium, silks and lace, seized in the luggage of Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice consul here, were received today by customs officials.

The instructions came from Assistant Treasury Secretary Seymour Lowman, and were believed to indicate that Mrs. Ying, whose rank does not give her diplomatic immunity, may be charged with smuggling.

CONCORDAT OF HOLY SEE IS APPROVED

BERLIN, July 9.—(UP)—The Protestant diet at the end of an uproarious debate, punctuated with anti-religious shouts of communists, today approved the concordat with the Holy See by a vote of 243 to 172.

Ernest Stendel, leader of Gustav Stresemann's folks party in the diet, bitterly opposed the concordat and demanded that Prussia simultaneously conclude a treaty with the Protestant church.

DEFENSE WILL REST DAVIS TRIAL TODAY

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(UP)—Harold Davis, former chief deputy district attorney, continued his testimony in his own defense when his trial on bribery charges reconvened before Superior Judge Emmet Wilson here today.

Davis had gotten well into his story of the Julian Petroleum corporation collapse and conditions in former District Attorney Asa Keyes' office, in which he was employed, before court adjourned yesterday. He denied that he had ever accepted $7500 from Ed Rosenberg, Julian trial defendant, to "favorably direct his prosecution."

The defense was expected to rest its case late today and final arguments were to begin tomorrow.

MRS. WHITNEY WILL ASK FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, July 9.—(UP)—Mrs. Marie Norton Whitney, wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, has taken up residence in Reno, Nev., to obtain a divorce, according to the New York Daily News.

Whitney, who refused to acknowledge the son of Evan Burrows Fontaine as his own, won a final decree last May dismissing the $1,000,000 suit brought against him by the dancer who alleged that "Sonny" Whitney was her boy's father.

The News says Whitney has been giving Broadway night clubs a play recently, and that rumors of a marital rift between the society girl who married Whitney in the midst of his legal snarls have been heard since 1924.

GASOLINE WAR SEEN IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(UP)—Renewal of the local "gas war" on a city-wide basis was threatened here today unless price cutting service stations return to the 20-cent level.

The board of directors of the Retail Service Station Dealers' association decided upon that course of action, unless the return is made at a meeting Monday night.

"The end of this week was set as the deadline," Charles Jacobs, field director, said today. "If they do not come into line by then we will cut until we force them to."

Probe Opens Into Fatal Shootings

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 9.—(UP)—Federal investigation into the Independence day prohibition raid shooting of two Pottawatomie county farmers was under full way today with arrival of three federal investigators from Topeka, Kas.

Preliminary hearing of W. W. Thompson, federal prohibition agent, and his three aides was postponed today until Saturday to allow for further questioning.

The federal agents from Topeka questioned Thompson in his cell at the county jail here.

A girl who sews too steadily finally knits her eyebrows.

Anaheim Man Killed By Officers In Sioux City, Ia.

L. T. SMITH, 30, SHOT TRYING TO MAKE GETAWAY

L. T. Smith, 30, Anaheim man, was shot and instantly killed late yesterday when he attempted to escape from officers in Sioux City, Ia., after they had stopped him to question him regarding a stolen car. It was learned from news dispatches here today.

When the police officers drove their car alongside the machine in which Smith was riding alone, he is asserted to have whipped a revolver from a pocket and pointed it toward the police car. Officers in the machine fired at him, one of the bullets striking him in the shoulder.

Smith dropped his pistol and darted from the car in an effort to get away, according to the report received here. The officers fired again, killing him.

According to information received here from Sioux City, the car in

Action Of Scouts Prevents Serious Fire In Newport

NEWPORT BEACH, July 9.—Quick work on the part of six members of Newport Beach Boy Scout troop No. 5 averted what probably would have been a serious blaze here last night.

The boys were returning from a meeting in the Newport Beach Scout cabin when they noticed flames in a barn. The boys formed a water line and before the city fire engine arrived on the scene had the fire completely under control.

The boys were under the supervision of Vernon Orr, assistant Scoutmaster, and A. J. Twist, Scoutmaster of the troop. The boys participating in the emergency work were Donald Stafford, LeRoy Stafford, Patrick Jordan, Max Jordan, Vernon Orr Jr., and George Hornor.

question had been stolen.

Anaheim police officials this afternoon had received no information regarding the shooting, they said. No report of the killing had been received by the sheriff's office.

their plane, the Angelo, when they finally land.

The messages dropped to the field continued in the optimistic vein Reinhardt and Mendell have maintained from the first.

"After we pass the record we intend to keep going until the motors quit," one note read. "We don't know when we will come down, probably not until we go better than 200 hours," another said.

The two men that form the crew of the "nurse ship" likewise were confident that the Angelo would break all records.

After they established contact and transferred fuel this morning, Paul Whittier, pilot, and Slade Hulbert, hose-man said they were certain that Reinhardt and Mendell "were up there to stay."

Whittier and Hulbert made each of the 22 successful contacts to date. Hulbert handled the 55-foot hose of the craft to transfer 150 gallons of gasoline each contact.

Neither the men on the Angelo nor those on the refueler are well known in aviation circles.

Mendell, who flies the Angelo during all the contacts, has more experience than the others. He formerly was in the United States customs office along the Mexican border in Texas.

Reinhardt, previous to this flight, was said not to have the 200 hours necessary before a flyer can secure a transport license.

He formerly lived in Salem, Oregon, and Seattle, and his wife was reported here to be enroute from Oregon today. Mendell is 33 and Reinhardt 29.

Whittier, pilot of the refueler, volunteered to take a part in the endurance plans merely as a lark. He is one of the heirs to the Whittier oil fortune.

The Angelo is a four-place cabin plane with a black fuselage and red-tipped white wings.

It is powered by a Wright whirlwind motor.

GIVEN STIFF TERM ON WEAPON CHARGE

Santiago Caranza, 36, arrested here on June 28 on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of liquor, pleaded guilty to the latter charge in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning and was fined $250, with an alternate of going to jail for 250 days.

The other charge against him was dropped.

Unable to pay the fine, Caranza was lodged in the county jail this afternoon, serving his sentence. He was represented by N. D. Meyer, attorney.

SALESMAN NABBED ON THEFT CHARGE

Wanted here on a charge of grand theft, in connection with the asserted theft of five vacuum cleaners, property of the Dale Hardware company, L. E. McDaniels, has been arrested in San Diego, according to word received by the sheriff's office this morning.

F. W. Howard and Floyd Fuller, deputy sheriffs, left here at noon for the southern city to return the prisoner here.

69 BOY SCOUTS WILL EXECUTOR SCHEDULED FOR COURT HEARING

Cheers and other evidences of youthful exuberance marked the departure, this morning, of 69 Boy Scouts from various points in the county for the Scout camp, Ro-Ki-Li, in the San Bernardino mountains.

Members of troops from Tustin, Newport Beach, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach and Santa Ana mobilized at Scout headquarters for camp in a cavalcade of three private cars and a huge truck furnished through the courtesy of the Santa Ana Commercial company. Members of troops from the northern part of the county made the trip in a truck furnished by E. H. Peterkin, with the exception of Fullerton Scouts, who used a truck owned by their organization.

The Scouts going into camp today will remain until July 23 and the trucks will bring back the boys from the first period as they return tonight.

The boys that started for camp today from Santa Ana include Arthur Nisso, John Sauters, Stanley Wilson, Edgar Pankey, Oakes Newcomb, Dalton Young, Peter Plumb, Robert Smith, Willard Stearns, Leslie Pollard, Ted Griset, Carl Allison, Loren Page and Reynolds Bullock, of Tustin troop 32; Phelps Merickel, Melvin Ross, Wallace Ross, Wilfred McDonald and Hugh McMillan, of Newport Beach troop 5; Bert Harding, of Huntington Beach troop 2; Robert Parry, of Laguna Beach troop 10; Kenall Brown, Charles Downie, Weston Sprague, Robert Wimbush, Howard Park, Sam Tucker, Jack Hawkins, Claude Owens, Robert Brommel, Harold Woodard and Demoni Galbraith, of Santa Ana troop 24; Joe Catherine and Roderic Dresser, of Santa Ana troop 28; Earl Lane and Charles Bain, of Santa Ana troop 20; Chester Hess of Santa Ana troop 33, and Harry Reed of troop 29, Santa Ana.

The northern part of the county will be represented by Lee Benson and Richard Clark, Anaheim troop 74; Richard Stuelke, Fullerton troop 92; Francis Fickel, Fred Livingston, Wilbur Streech, Jim Snyder and Donald Ray, Fullerton troop 93; Stanley Christensen, Norman Christensen and Charles Boyer, Fullerton troop 94; Phillip Smith, Fullerton troop 95; Roy Hill, Jesse Rainbolt and Dick Cox, Placentia troop 100; Adrian Ames, David Fairbairn and Calvin Crawford, Olive troop 56; Oswald Meisner and Rolfe Koch, Brea troop 97; Francis Luehn, Earl Strupp, Harlan Heet, Donald Little, James Peak, Allen McClure, Wallace McClure, Warren Tinker, Donald McNay, Jack Dawson and Calvin Baker, La Habra troop 96.

The trip is being made under the personal supervision of George G. Walker, Orange county Scout executive, and it is planned to reach the camp in time for dinner, loading the return group in time to catch the 3 o'clock down control from the camp. Henry Uncamp is director of the camp and he is aided by a trained staff.

The executor of the will of the late Otto S. Lewis, who died here in 1926, leaving property valued at approximately $125,658.45, was filed in the office of the county court clerk today.

The citation set July 12, at 2 p. m., as the date on which Aylmore was instructed to appear and show cause why a court order should not be issued directing him to file an account and to apply all sums coming into his hands as administrator to payment of indebtedness against the decedent on "claims regularly approved and allowed" and to liquidate all property in his hands for payment of debts; or that "you may be discharged from your office and another executor appointed."

The citation was signed by Superior Judge E. J. Marks.

Issuing of the citation was preceded by the filing of a petition by the First National bank, which stated that among the claims against the estate were two advanced by the petitioner, which had been approved, and which were based on promissory notes, one for $7000 and one for $4157.53.

The petition alleged that the executor had collected $20,000 for the estate and had spent $4300, mostly for administration expenses. Most of the income had been applied to paying annuities provided for in the will, to the exclusion of creditors, the petition said.

The executor has filed an account setting forth this fact, which was approved by the court, according to the petition, which said that the annual income of the estate, estimated at $6000, should be applied to reducing claims in preference to paying annuities. Interest on the notes held by the bank has been paid but not the principal, the petition alleged.

Frank V. Hoffman, a jeweler in Santa Ana for the last 13 years, today became manager of the insurance department of the Ray Goodell Realty company.

Hoffman recently sold his jewelry business on West Fourth street to H. L. Woodruff, who soon will be open for business in the same location.

In 1916 Hoffman came to Santa Ana and went to work for the Padgham Jewelry company. In 1922 he purchased the store from Padgham and has conducted it since. Hoffman had been engaged in the jewelry business in this country for the last 40 years.

A desire to get out into the open air after years of confining work caused Hoffman to decide to go into the insurance business.

HOFFMAN ACCEPTS REALTY POSITION

Directors of the Santa Ana Community chest will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Community Chest headquarters. Matters of importance are expected to come before the group.

The board of supervisors today awarded to Fritz Ziebert, of Long Beach, the contract for installation of an ornamental lighting system in Garden Grove. The successful bid was $7772. The two main streets in Garden Grove are to be equipped with a total of 40 ornamental lighting standards.

Here your watch will get individual attention. Remember I specialize.

Richard Meeks, 27, Smeltzer man, arrested July 4 on an old warrant charging sale of liquor, found two such counts starting him in the face when he walked into Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning to be arraigned on the first charge.

The second charge was filed after Meeks had made bail on the first charge.

Preliminary examinations were held on both counts and the defendant was held to answer on both. Bail of $100 was demanded.

Meeks is a brother of Hubert and Walter Meeks, both of whom are in the county jail now on liquor charges. All of the charges against the three brothers resulted from the district attorney's county-wide raid here in March.

Approximately 150 persons were allowed to make out applications for new automobile drivers' licenses in the office of the state traffic department this morning, following the receipt of supplies for that number here last night, but at noon today the shipment had been exhausted and the application department again closed.

The crowds of drivers desiring new licenses completely swamped the state traffic office last week and exhausted the supply of blanks and the supplies received last night were the first on hand since that time.

Henry Meehan, state traffic captain here, said today he did not know when more supplies would be received but that the policy of "first come, first served" would apply as the applications arrived.

Henry Meehan, state traffic captain here, said today he did not know when more supplies would be received but that the policy of "first come, first served" would apply as the applications arrived.

es on the notes held by the bank has been paid but not the principal, the petition alleged.

Richard Meeks, 27, Smeltzer man, arrested July 4 on an old warrant charging sale of liquor, found two such counts starting him in the face when he walked into Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning to be arraigned on the first charge.

The second charge was filed after Meeks had made bail on the first charge.

Preliminary examinations were held on both counts and the defendant was held to answer on both. Bail of $100 was demanded.

Meeks is a brother of Hubert and Walter Meeks, both of whom are in the county jail now on liquor charges. All of the charges against the three brothers resulted from the district attorney's county-wide raid here in March.

Approximately 150 persons were allowed to make out applications for new automobile drivers' licenses in the office of the state traffic department this morning, following the receipt of supplies for that number here last night, but at noon today the shipment had been exhausted and the application department again closed.

DRAINAGE DISTRICT PLAINTIFF IN SUIT

Complaining that James Molola, dairy operator in the vicinity of Talbert, habitually allowed refuse to drain from his property into a ditch of the Talbert drainage district, that he had refused to discontinue the practice and that, as a result, property owners along the ditch have been subjected to insanitary conditions which are a menace to health, the Talbert drainage district today brought suit against Molola, seeking an injunction to restrain him from continuing the alleged objectionable custom.

The complaint also asked a money judgment of $350 from the defendant.

It was alleged that the district had been subjected to considerable expense in keeping the ditch clear as a result of Molola's alleged practice.

Four persons were given fines of $2 each in police court yesterday on charges of overtime parking. They were W. H. McPherson, H. G. Cain, Floyd D. Rayburn and E. J. Scott. C. E. Marsh, charged with parking his automobile between 2 and 5 a. m., on a downtown street, two nights in succession, was fined $4.

Charged with being drunk, Ernest Gradian and J. Flores were fined $15 each in Judge J. F. Talbot's court yesterday. They were arrested over the week-end. Neither paid the fine and each will serve one day for each dollar in the county jail.

P. W. Roberts, 54, dishwasher, of 717 West Fifth street, was arrested last night in a restaurant on a charge of being drunk. Officers Nicholson and Dean made the arrest.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT
Emerson once remarked to an acquaintance, "What you are speaking so loudly to me that I cannot hear what you are saying."

In spite of your staggering grief, which sometimes seems to you to have driven all capacity for joy and for faith out of your life, if you hold steadfastly to your hopes and to your determination to try to merit their fulfillment, your life will have its message of encouragement and of strength to your fellows even while you are voicing your doubts and your fears for you really do believe that God loves you.

POSSIBILITY OF FUTURE ACTION WILL BE TOLD

That the flood control issue still is vigorously alive in Orange county despite the recent defeat of the proposed bond issue to carry it out was evidenced today in a notice sent to members of the Garden Grove Farm center by John W. Crill, president of that organization, in which he stated, "I can think of no community better qualified or adapted to urge the immediate reconsideration of the bond issue than our own."

Garden Grove gave the bonds an overwhelming majority vote at the election, it was recalled today.

"With this in view," the letter continued, "our supervisor, John C. Mitchell, has consented to talk to us on the present status of the board of supervisors, on possibilities for future action, together with a bit of advice on this matter."

Mitchell will address the center at a meeting scheduled for Thursday, 7:30 p. m., in the Garden Grove Women's clubhouse. Lotus Loudon, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, will present another angle of the subject, the letter stated, pointing out that this organization is now working out details relative to placing the issue before the public. "Yes, the bonds were defeated," said the letter, "but we are not. We can't be. A few reactionaries, a few individuals, actuated by selfish and misguided motives, with more money than judgment, cannot and will not destroy our economic prosperity. Your response was great. The farm bureau was the outstanding influence in this district," the letter declared.

VIC WALKER NAMED 20-30 PRESIDENT

Vic Walker, advertising and publicity manager for Fox theaters in Santa Ana, was elected president of the 20-30 club last night at a dinner meeting held in Ketter's cafe. Other officers who were elected included Verlin Anderson, vice president; Wallace McClure, secretary; Leland Finley, treasurer; and Harold Breeding, sergeant-at-arms. Following the election of officers, Frank Humphres, of the Commercial National bank, was introduced by Walker, who was chairman of the program, and he gave a talk on "Co-operation versus Competition."

Another feature of the evening's program was the presentation of a series of popular airs, sung by Harry Jensen.

Building permits totaling $12,899 Reported Issued
Building permits totaling $12,899 have been issued during the last two days, according to Sam Preble, city building inspector. Two residences and remodeling of a downtown business room account for $12,000 of the total, the other items being for alterations and additions.

The homes are to be built by Jasper Farney and Vern Maynard. Farney is building a six-room house and garage, costing $4500, at 1225 South Birch street, and Maynard's project is at 1728 West Walnut street. This is the same type as the Farney house and will cost $3000.

The building alteration, which includes a new front, is for the W. H. Spurgeon Realty company, at 312 North Sycamore street.

Local Briefs

Members of the Tennessee reunion organization living in Santa Ana have been notified that the annual picnic of the group will be held this year in Genesha park, Pomona. The affair is scheduled for Sunday, July 21, and many former Tennesseans are planning to renew old friendships at the event.

Assurance of a principal for the Santa Ana high school for some time to come was given today when it was learned that a son had been born to Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, of 210 West Orange road, in the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

Fifty Orange county orchardists and spray rig operators gathered at 2 p. m., yesterday, in the yards of the Orange County Fumigation company, Orange, where a spray demonstration was given and methods were outlined. The gathering was sponsored by the extension service and arranged by Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, J. P. Fairbanks, extension specialist in agricultural engineering, and R. K. Bishop, of the county horticultural department, gave talks.

A huge cucumber grown by J. H. Orman, 1122 Cypress street, is on display in the offices of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The "cuke" has the makings of a lot of piccolilli, weighing nearly 5 pounds. It is 33 in. long and 10 inches in circumference. Orman said he had several others nearly as large in his garden.

THEO. WINBIGLER, BACK IN SANTA ANA, TELLS THRILLS ATTENDING ORIENTAL TOUR

"To know China one should visit Peking and to know Japan, one should visit Nikko," declared Theo. A. Winbigler, one of Santa Ana's most confirmed globe-trotters, who has just returned from an extensive stay in the Orient and the South Sea Islands and who declared that there was not one single unpleasant feature to mar his complete enjoyment of this, his most recent trip abroad.

Pago-Pago, that most southerly possession of Uncle Sam visited by the Santa Anas, the Fiji Islands, with the so-called "Inter-Island trip," New Zealand, Australia, the Celebes, Singapore, the famous cities of China and Japan, all were points visited by Winbigler, who traveled in such a manner that he was free to linger as long as he wished at any point. One of his most thrilling experiences came with the voyage from Singapore to Hong Kong, when the vessel carried 2200 native coolies and 11 first-class passengers, only five of whom were English-speaking.

To guard against a possible uprising and mutiny on the part of the natives, their quarters on the ship were separated from the first class cabins by heavy steel bars, and as additional precaution, the decks were patrolled by fully-armed Sikhs in groups of eight at a time. The voyage continued for five days and these measures were not lapsed for a second of the time. The coolies shipped as "deck passengers," sleeping and eating wherever fancy dictated, for there were no staterooms for them.

Java, according to Winbigler, is the "storehouse of the world," because of the luxuriance and variety of its products. "There isn't a spice that you can name that isn't grown there. Coffee, cane, sugar, rubber, rice and all varieties of tropical fruits and products are raised in the utmost abundance and every inch of the island is rich soil, with no rocks from the edge of the sea to the top of the mountain peaks," he declared.

In Peking, the Santa Anas had the interesting experience of encountering two friends from his home town—Mrs. E. E. Keach and her daughter, Mrs. Madeline Keach Hogue, who will soon return to California, when the vessel completed his duties in the Orient with the U. S. navy.

Asked as to the charm of the Oriental countries as compared with the old world, which he visited last year, Winbigler declared that while the trip was thoroughly enjoyable and interesting from start to finish, nothing could compare in his mind with the fascination of Egypt and the ancient art and beauty of Italy and her traditions of early Greek civilization.

NECESSITY OF PROTECTION IN FORESTS TOLD

H. S. Gilman, president of the Los Angeles Forest Protective association and a member of the state board of forestry, and M. B. Pratt, state forester, were the speakers before the Orange County Forest Protective association of the farm bureau at its monthly meeting in Ketter's cafe last night.

Gilman outlined the work and the problems immediately confronting the state board. "Forestry is the science of establishing protection for every acre of wild growth, either as to fire or regulated stream flow," Gilman stated. "Two-thirds of the standing timber of the state is privately owned," Gilman continued, "and the time must come soon when the situation now apparent will become known to the people of California and some movement will be made to conserve our rapidly disappearing watersheds."

In the second talk of the evening Pratt spoke of the vast areas in the northern section of the state which have been burned over during the last year. According to Pratt, in four fires alone over 130,000 acres of growth have been destroyed. The recent Mill Valley fire meant the loss of over $1,500,000 in property.

"There are more than 30,000,000 acres of timberland in California, but there are only four forest fire trucks in action as yet," Pratt concluded.

Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors, in charge of forestry work in Orange county, explained that even though adequate equipment and firebreaks were established, they would be of little value without the use of organized workers to handle them. Smith cited the recent fire near Irvine park, which would have been very serious had it not been

Amateur Sailboat Enthusiast Loses Hat and Dignity

NEWPORT BEACH, July 9.—C. A. Stanford, operating engineer of the Tom Reed Mining company, of Arizona, and Miss Marian Leffingwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Werner Leffingwell, of Pasadena, started off for a sail yesterday afternoon in the snowbird "Blackbird" around Balboa bay.

When coming about in the channel off the ferry landing, the boat ran up and the spirits as well as the clothing of the young people were materially dampened.

Stanford was caught beneath the sail and was rescued from his precarious position by his fair companion. He reported the loss of his dignity and of a valuable Panama hat. Anyone finding either is requested to return the same to C. O. Stanford, Balboa.

Smoking Question Will Not Come To Board's Attention

With the board of education scheduled to meet at 7:30 p. m. today, indications pointed to the conclusion that there would be no official consideration of the question of smoking by Santa Ana teachers, a matter on which J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, has expressed himself with vigor.

The policy of hiring teachers who do not smoke has been in operation and it is felt by the board that there is no cause for considering the matter officially any further, it was pointed out.

for the quick and efficient work of the county group.

At the close of the session a vote of thanks was given the supervisors for the aid they have given the organization by purchasing fire fighting equipment.

FAVORITES TO BE FEATURED IN BAND PROGRAM

An especially appealing, well-contrasted concert program will be presented in Birch park Thursday night, starting at 7:30, by the Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of D. C. Clafford. Numbers selected for presentation will include both classic and popular favorites, with vocal and instrumental solos an additional attraction.

The interesting program will include two old favorites, the familiar overture from Flotow's popular light opera, "Martha," one of the most popular of all light operas, and a selection from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," equally a favorite with music-lovers universally.

"Martha" first was presented in Vienna, 1847. Its composer, Flotow, was born in Mecklenburg, Germany, April 27, 1812. Despite parental opposition, he adopted music as a career, making his debut as a composer in 1837, with "Stradella," a concert piece, rewritten later as an opera. This was followed by production of "Martha" in 1847. Flotow's death occurred in January, 1883.

Upon his opera "Martha," Flotow's fame chiefly rests, most of his other compositions having failed to endure the test of time. For several generations familiar strains from this well-known opera of the people have been household favorites, characterized by sparkling melody and cheery humor.

"Il Trovatore," one of the best-loved of Giuseppe Verdi's many operatic masterpieces, is another great popular favorite. Produced in Rome, in January, 1853, this romantic opera was a great success from the very first, being equally loved by music-enthusiasts today. Verdi is considered the most representative Italian opera composer of his time, adorned in Italy and honored internationally as one of the foremost of operatic composers. His work is characterized by vigorous rhythms, fertile melody, stirring climaxes, vitality and remarkable dramatic insight.

Verdi's best known operas include, besides "Il Trovatore," the favorite "Aida," "Rigoletto," "Traviata," and many others of equal excellence.

Maurice Phillips, one of Santa Ana's favorite baritone, will be heard at Thursday night's concert in "Neapolitan Nights" (Zamengo) and will be accompanied by Harry Garstang, while Louis Indreani, cornet soloist, will present the grand fantasia, "Le Reve D'Amour" (Miliars), as a special feature.

Court Notes

man, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was continued yesterday by Justice Kenneth Morrison until July 15.

A fine of $150 was levied against

S. E. Hughes yesterday in the court of Justice K. E. Morrison. Hughes faced a charge of reckless driving.

The examination of George Click will be conducted at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning before Justice Morrison. Click is charged with non-support in a complaint filed by Rhoda Click. He was arraigned Saturday and is held under $500 bond pending the examination tomorrow.

Henry Luetje today brought suit against O. J. Linnartz and Anna Linnartz, seeking judgment for $250. The complaint stated that the defendants had executed a promissory note to Luetje for that amount and that a default had been made in payment thereof.

William Slater today had been given judgment against Ambrose and Lena Boyd, quieting title to 70 acres of property near Huntington Beach. The case was heard yesterday in superior court.

Thunder Showers Reported In East

NEW YORK, July 9.—(UP)—Thunder showers today brought relief from the heat which has prevailed here for two days. The thermometer again went to 89 yesterday and six persons were drowned in the Metropolitan area while trying to escape from the heat by swimming. Fourteen persons were over-come.

"It is a mistake to use any other soap!"

says ECHTEN of Budapest

Beauty specialist to the leading actresses and opera singers of The Royal Opera House

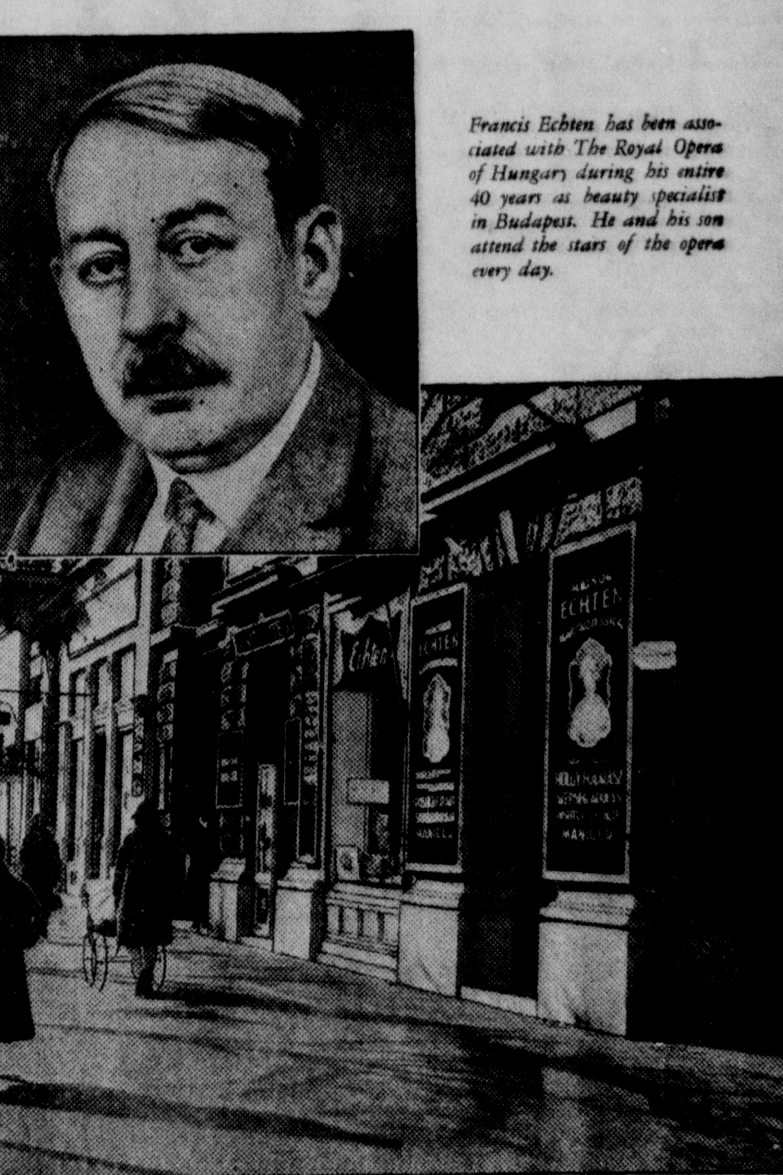

"WHENEVER I give a treatment in my salon," says Francis Echten, of Budapest, "I add the advice to cleanse the skin twice daily with Palmolive Soap!"

The advice is particularly interesting because both Echten and his son are distinguished in coiffure and complexion care. Francis Echten holds a diploma as Professor of Beautifying, Hungary, Akademie de Damentrieier Kunst, Vienna; Establissements Chabrier, Paris. He has won three awards in competitions, two medals of gold and one of silver.

All European experts agree
Throughout Middle Europe and the Continent, beauty specialists are unanimous in their commendation of Palmolive Soap
And in America more than 15,000 experts tell their patrons to follow the same advice: massage a bland, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap into the pores for two minutes. Rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Occasionally, an ice facial is refreshing. Now—and not before—apply your make-up
Try that simple treatment this evening. Use Palmolive for your bath too. Then wonder why you ever used any other, since this costs no more than ordinary soap.

Most tremendous endorsement any product ever had! Just think! 15,750 beauty experts, in America alone, advise the regular use of Palmolive Soap.

Francis Echten, Junior, too, finds Palmolive of invaluable aid in keeping complexions lovely

"Whenever I give a treatment in my salon, I add the advice to cleanse the skin twice daily with Palmolive Soap. Nothing else, in my experience, so thoroughly removes all the tiny particles that collect and clog up the pores, and unless all this accumulation is removed regularly no amount of treatment can really keep the skin youthful and healthy."

Convention Of Southland Churches Is Under Way

ANAHEIM HOST TO CHRISTIAN DENOMINATION

ANAHEIM, July 9.—A large number of Christian churches of Southern California were represented at the first meeting of the regional summer conference which opened here yesterday when 200 were in attendance at each of the sessions held during the day and ending with an evangelistic service in the evening.

The sermon of the evening was preached by the Rev. A. C. Rankin, of Australia, who had as his topic, "John the Baptist, Pioneer." Eugene Knout of the Eugene Bible university, spoke on the subject "Christ's Faith in Man."

Friday evening has been set as the big day for the young people when a rally will be held and the Anaheim young people will furnish an interesting program and refreshments. The Rev. Abe Bonnett, field secretary of the Bible seminary, will be the speaker.

A number of well known speakers have been secured for the event which closes Saturday and which is an annual one in the Christian churches of the Southland. The movement is an unorganized one and there are no officers for the conference aside from leaders chosen to speak.

Song services will be in charge of Hal Martin, of Compton.

Hiker Falls For Lack Of Nourishment

SAN CLEMENTE, July 9.—Swaying, a young man came up the main street of San Clemente. He stumbled, fell and a call was sent to Police Chief Forest J. Eaton. Chief Eaton took the man, E. Budvaule, 29, no address given, to the San Clemente clinic and hospital. There he was given an examination and found to be suffering from lack of nutrition. He was fed.

The starving man, revived by food and a physical examination, said he was on his way to San Diego to look for work. Chief Eaton, knowing a friend San Diego bound, placed Budvaule in his car and bid the stranger good by.

The social night of the organization will be held at the city park on Friday of this week. At this time a plunge party and a ball game will be enjoyed. Hostesses for Friday will be Mrs. R. Hess and Mrs. J. Anderson. A basket dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

BREA

BREA, July 9.—The Conductress association of Orange county, Order of Eastern Star, entertained the line officers at a luncheon at the La Casa Grande inn at Laguna Beach on Wednesday.

Those attending from Brea were Mrs. Cynthia Hubbard, conductress; Mrs. Lina Russell, worthy matron; Mrs. Clara Close, associate matron and Mrs. Sylvia Frye, associate conductress.

The afternoon was spent in playing "Cootie" and Bridge. Miss Francis Anderson, nurse in the Emergency hospital, returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Bancroft, South Dakota. She now is spending a few days in San Gabriel, taking a special nurses' course before returning to Brea.

Miss Dorrie and Dorothy Forbes, of West Cedar street, motored to Los Angeles and attended a theatre, recently.

Miss Thelma Rankin, of South Pomona avenue, returned Friday afternoon from a visit of several days with relatives in Los Angeles.

EGYPTIAN IS ATTRACTED BY ORANGE SHOW

ANAHEIM, July 9.—California Valencia Orange show as reported in the "Citrograph," official publication of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, awakened the interest of an Egyptian orange grower to such an extent that he wrote George W. Reid, secretary of the show and of the Anaheim chamber of commerce for fuller details of the event.

The Egyptian, Ayoub Mikhail, wrote that he was an attorney in Cairo but that he had taken an extension course in citrus fruit growing from the University of California at Los Angeles. Following the completion of the course Mikhail replanted a 25-acre tract on which he had formerly raised cotton, to oranges, with which he was having great success, he stated.

The attorney asked on what qualifications the queen of the show was elected, whether she were the most beautiful woman in the community or whether she raised the best oranges. He asked for the address of Miss Dorothy Day, the blonde queen of this year's show. Two years ago the Cairo orange grower sent Miss Blenda Probst, queen of the show of that year, a picture of himself.

The letter, received yesterday, was mailed in the Egyptian city, June 16. In answering the letter, Secretary Reid extended an invitation to Mikhail to attend the tenth Valencia Orange show to be held here next year.

WOMEN HURT IN AUTO CRASHES REMAIN IN SERIOUS CONDITION

ANAHEIM, July 9.—The condition of Mrs. S. Hernandez, 808 East Broadway, and Mrs. Susie Hall, 439 East Truslow avenue, Fullerton, who were injured in automobile accidents Monday, is practically the same today, both being critically injured.

Mrs. Hernandez has a double fracture of the skull, sustained when the car she was riding in overturned after colliding with another automobile at Harvard and Orangewood streets in Anaheim. The driver of the car came to a boulevard stop, according to reports, and collided with a car driven by W. H. Sutton of Van Nuys.

No one else was injured. Mrs. Hall is still in the Fullerton General hospital with a badly hurt chest and back, according to reports this morning. The car Mrs. Hall was driving was in a head-on collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. E. A. Rhome, of Brea, Monday afternoon near the city auto park. Mrs. Rhome started to pass a grocery truck, reports said, and met the Hall car coming in the opposite direction. Both cars were badly damaged, the Hall machine being thrown off the road between two trees.

BUILDING PERMIT TOTAL REVEALED

SAN CLEMENTE, July 9.—Building statistics for the month of June and for the first half of 1929 reveal San Clemente as one of the fastest growing communities of the south coast. During June $22,039 was spent in construction in San Clemente, which placed the Spanish Village above the following cities for building activity for the month:

Del Mar, Tulare, Manhattan Beach, Monterey Park, Ontario, La Verne, Harbor City, Brawley, Visalia, Hawthorne, El Monte, Sierra Madre, Montebello, Corona, Porterville, Redondo Beach, Upland, Calexico, Glendora, Lindsay, Exeter.

For the year, January to June 30, San Clemente with a total of $167,899, leads the following cities: Azusa, Hermosa Beach, Del Mar, Manhattan Beach, Harbor City, El Monte, Montebello, Tulare, Monterey Park, La Verne, Brawley, Hawthorne, Sierra Madre, Corona, Porterville, Redondo Beach, Upland, Calexico, Glendora, Lindsay, Exeter.

SPRINGDALE

SPRINGDALE, July 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Barry and son, George Barry, who are spending their vacation in the east are having a delightful visit with the former's relatives in Coffine, Ill. They have written friends here. Barry met three brothers and one sister at a reunion, the first for twenty-three years. A hard electrical storm delayed the travellers shortly before they reached their destination and they were unable to get out of the mud for a time. When they reached Coffine they found they had missed a tornado by a short time.

Two chicken roosts in the local vicinity were robbed of five pigeons. At the L. E. Barry ranch a fine flock of Black Jersey Giant chickens were taken and but one of the flock of chickens was left at the Albert Mallett ranch. The thefts occurred the same night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruoff and family were hosts to City Engineer and Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake and family of Orange recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kettler and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Kettler and daughter are in the mountains where they are spending some time at their cabin at Lake Arrowhead.

SCOUT OFFICIAL ADDRESSES CLUB

FULLERTON, July 9.—George G. Walker, county scout executive, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Fullerton Kiwanis club yesterday noon in McFarland's cafe.

Walker asked for interest and aid in the work of the Boy Scout organization and stressed the need for man power and the right sort of influence of some man or group of men for boys during the "plastic age" from 12 to 15 years. The speaker also told of work being accomplished by the scouts in various communities.

The program chairman of the day was Karl Parks, who introduced Walker as the speaker. Don Jones presided at the meeting in the absence of President Ted Corcoran, who is in the east.

Hubert Biggs and Harry V. Williams told of some of their experiences encountered on their vacation trips from which they have just returned.

SAN CLEMENTE

HENRY WORTHY IS VICTIM OF TYPHOID FEVER

WESTMINSTER, July 9.—Word of the death of Henry Worthy, 31, former resident of this community, was received here yesterday. Worthy contracted typhoid fever near Phoenix, Ariz., where he was working, according to reports. He was working in a field near Phoenix recently when the drinking water supply gave out. It is believed that he drank water from an irrigation ditch. Typhoid fever may have resulted from use of this water, it was said.

Andrew Worthy, brother, of Ocean View has left for Phoenix. The body will be brought to the Harrell and Brown funeral home, Santa Ana, and services will be held at 2 p. m. next Wednesday at the First Christian church, Huntington Beach. The Rev. Mr. C. C. Root, pastor of the Anaheim Christian church, will officiate in the absence of the Rev. Mr. Hurst, of the Huntington Beach church.

Worthy, who left here five years ago, died Saturday morning. In addition to his brother he is survived by an uncle, J. T. Worthy, Midway city.

W. C. FRISBEY, SANTA ANA MAN, JOINS MARINES

Laying aside civilian clothes for the uniform of the marine corps, Willie C. Frisbey, of Santa Ana, is now undergoing training in the drills, duties and customs of the soldiers of the sea at the marine corps base in San Diego, according to a recent report of enlistments at that training station.

Attracted by the prospect of serving aboard a battleship, seeing foreign lands, or the appearance of the smart military uniform worn by the marines, Frisbey applied for enlistment in Oakland a few days ago and was sent to the training station in San Diego, where his instruction, as a recruit, soon will be completed.

Frisbey is 21 years old and made his home with his father, George C. Frisbey, rural route 3, Santa Ana, prior to beginning his career as a sea soldier.

For several months the marine corps ranks were filled to over-

Rail Commission Will Hear Battle On S. A. Bus Lines

The fight of the Pacific Electric to discontinue its bus service in Santa Ana has advanced to the state railroad commission, according to advice to the city council from that body, at the regular session of the council last night by City Clerk Ed Vegely.

The operators of the bus lines here have petitioned the state commission for permission to withdraw the service and a hearing is scheduled in the commission's courtroom in Los Angeles for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, August 10.

City Attorney Charles Swanner was instructed by the council to represent the city at this hearing and to enter a vigorous protest against discontinuance of the bus service.

Flowing, but recruiting now has been resumed to fill a number of vacancies which have occurred in recent weeks.

Frisbey enlisted for a period of four years.

VEHICLE LAWS DISCUSSED BY INSURANCE MEN

Election of officers for the coming year and discussion of the new motor vehicle financial responsibility laws featured the monthly meeting of the Santa Ana Association of Insurance Agents, held yesterday noon in Ketter's cafe.

Officers chosen were John A. Henderson, president; W. B. Martin, vice president; Harold P. Harrison, secretary; C. H. Phillips and Mac O. Robbins, executive committee.

Discussion of the new automobile liability laws was for the purpose of familiarizing each insurance man present with the bills passed by the last session of the legislature, which become effective on August 13. While the laws do not compel the automobile owner to carry liability and property damage insurance, it was explained that any automobile owner or operator against whom a judgment for personal injury or property damage in an amount over $100, remained unpaid for 15 days would suffer the cancellation of his operator's license and his automobile certificate. Thereafter no license or certificate to operate or own a car would be issued until the judgment was paid and until he further had provided for any future claims by the filing with the motor vehicle superintendent of an insurance policy, a bond, or the cash sufficient to meet the needs of the new law—$10,000 for personal injury claims and $1000 for property damage claims.

The new laws further provide for the definite extension of a car owner's liability to include the acts of any person operating his car with the owner's consent. In addition, an employer for whom a car is being operated has a distinct liability for the acts of his employee, even though the car involved in an accident belongs to the employee.

The business meeting was preceded by a squash dinner, the birds being supplied from the lots of Mac O. Robbins, one of the association members.

DRUM CORPS MEET WILL FEATURE FAIR

Announcement was made today by Orange County fair officials that a drum corps contest and an unusually large competitive dog show will be special features of the 1929 fair. More than 200 canine aristocrats already are entered in the show, it was announced.

Results of the last fair association meeting place Frank Purinton in charge of the rodeo and aviation departments of the exposition. Other directors of the fair departments named are H. A. Lake, finance and publicity; Norman Blaney, horse show and races; S. W. Stanley, livestock, poultry, pigeons, rabbits and concessions; Mrs. W. M. Kelsey, women's department, art and Indian village; S. W. Miller, platform entertainment, and decorations; George T. Kellogg, feature tent and birds, and Charles D. Van Wyck, junior fair and dog show.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

ACTION ON PROPOSED 'TONIC' ORDINANCE DELAYED; PROTEST TO ZONING CHANGE IS HEARD

The center of the stage at the regular city council meeting, last night, was occupied by matters connected with various changes in the city zoning ordinance. Members of the city planning commission were present for a joint meeting with the council and several districts were changed and protests on the proposed change of a district in the northeast section of the city from residential to heavy industrial were heard.

No further action was taken on the "wine tonic" and "canned heat" question, which has been the subject of considerable discussion at meetings in the last few weeks since the start of a campaign by the Santa Ana Ministerial association seeking the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the sale of these articles within the city limits. The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the council. A letter from one of the signers of the petition which was circulated by the ministerial association and presented to the council asked that her name be withdrawn, stating that she had not previously realized that the ordinance would be as far-reaching as that recently announced by City Attorney Charles Swanner, who stated that the prohibitive ordinance would have to include many standard "patent" medicines.

Protest Presented
The protest of a group of citizens from the northeast part of the city against changing the district in which they live from residential to industrial zone was presented to the council and members of the planning commission by G. K. Scovel, attorney for the group. The proposed change is being contemplated to care for the plant which the Richfield Oil company desires to build in this district at an expenditure of approximately $50,000. A petition asking that the council keep the district in the residential classification was presented and was said to carry the signatures of 100 percent of the property owners affected. About 15 of the residents of the district were present at the meeting, last night, to back up their protest.

Sketches and plans of the proposed Richfield plant were presented by H. R. McVay, of Santa Ana, district manager of the Richfield Oil company, for the inspection of the council planning commission and protesting property owners. The council and planning commission recessed for 15 minutes and discussed the proposition behind closed doors, after which they continued the hearing for one week. Mayor Purinton announced to the property owners that the bodies planned to make a personal inspection of the district, which is bounded on the west by the Southern Pacific tracks, on the north by a line about halfway between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, on the east by a line extending north from Terminal street, on the south by Fruit street. The decision of the council pleased the protesting owners, who felt that this would assure them the protection they desired.

Change Setback Line
The hearing on the proposed setback line of 15 feet on North Sycamore street, between Fifteenth and Seventeenth streets, was featured by a protest presented by Frank Lansdowne, Santa Ana architect, for his client, S. J. McClelland. Lansdowne presented sketches and blue prints of a proposed apartment structure that had been prepared a month before the proposed setback was introduced. The line would effect the property purchased some two months previously by McClelland for apartment purposes, he said. The building, as planned, has two projections that come within 10 feet of the property line, with the main part of the structure 22 feet back from the line. The planning commission and council concurred in changing the setback line to 10 feet and the ordinance passed the first reading in this form.

Ordinances were passed creating a setback line of 40 feet on both sides of Ross street from Nineteenth street to Santa Clara avenue, changing the zoning on North Sycamore from Washington ave-

WATER SERVICE TO BE ALLOWED OUTSIDE CITY

Action was taken on several requests for permits at the city council meeting last night in the council chamber.

The application of J. Brown for permission to operate a live poultry business at 1125 South Main street was referred to City Manager W. G. Knox.

Upon the recommendation of the city manager it was decided to grant city water service to Ed T. Beaudett, 1516 King street. The Beaudett property is outside the city limits.

The request of Helen Song for permission to operate a hand laundry in the garage at the rear of her home on East Fourth street, and of George P. Spangler for a license to continue his blacksmith shop on Sycamore street between Second and Third streets, were denied upon the recommendation of the city manager.

COUNCIL ASKED TO SET BARBER SHOPS' HOURS

City barbers want an ordinance fixing opening and closing hours for their shops.

They petitioned the city council to this effect last night, asking that an ordinance be passed fixing the opening hours not earlier than 8 a. m., and the closing hours not later than 6 p. m., except on the days before holidays.

All barbers in the city but one favored this move, it was reported to the council by barbers present, and Mayor Frank Purinton suggested that with such support it should be possible to create the condition desired without the necessity of an ordinance. This statement was made after the council was informed by City Attorney Charles Swanner that such action would be class legislation and could not be passed.

The matter was referred to Swanner for formal action and is to be reported back to the council at the next meeting.

SERVICES HELD FOR PROMINENT PLACENTIA MAN

FULLERTON, July 9.—Funeral services were held this morning for Joseph Henry Farrell, 50, field superintendent of the Orangethrope Citrus association and a resident of Placentia for the last 15 years, who passed away Saturday in his home in that city. Requiem mass was sung in St. Mary's Catholic church this morning and the body of Mr. Farrell then was removed to the Anaheim Elks temple, where it lay in state until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Officers of the Elks lodge had charge of the Elks service and burial was made in the Loma Vista cemetery. McAuley and Suters, of Fullerton, were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mr. Farrell was a native son of California, having been born in San Francisco. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Pauline Farrell; daughter, Maxine, two sisters, Miss Margaret Farrell, of Santa Barbara, and Miss Mary Farrell, of San Francisco, and one brother, George Farrell, of San Francisco.

He was a charter member of the Anaheim Elks lodge.

TABLE DECORATION

At a recent breakfast party, where yellow table linen and peasant pottery were used, the gaudy centerpiece decorations were made of ripe tomatoes, purple grapes and a few apricots. They were tremendously effective.

Man's Worst Enemy Is Constipation

See Your Intestine, Kidney, Etc., by X-Ray

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING FROM A SIMILAR AILMENT, I am very glad to tell you what the C. & R. Health Institute is doing for me.

My principal ailments were severe attacks of appendicitis, locked bowels and constipation with mucus-colitis. After I had spent hundreds of dollars trying different methods of healing, one of my doctors told me that I was "skating on thin ice," did not think an operation would do much good and advised my going to the C. & R. Health Institute for treatments.

I have taken treatments for about three months and have improved steadily. All the inflammation and soreness has left my right side, bowels move naturally, much less gas in the intestines, nerves are improved noticeably and catarrhal conditions are greatly relieved. My address is Box 116, Laguna Beach, Calif. Phone 1201.

Santa Ana Business Man

The best results I have had in 20 years has been from the unusual methods used at the C. & R. Health Institute. I have always had a feeling that my intestinal trouble was at the bottom of all my ailments. The X-Ray picture, however, and to my surprise, showed two large stones in my left kidney as well as distorted and diseased intestines. When I saw this picture I could easily understand the cause of my complete breakdown a year previous. For four months I was a regular patient and ever since that I have followed their instructions as to foods and exercises.

I am sure you will be pleased with the interest shown in your case and that you will be benefited more by their treatments than by anything you have ever done. I am back at my occupation and business, and having a complete intestinal elimination twice a day, natural, the first and only success during a period of 20 years.

Another admirer lost for Janet... all because of "B.O."

(Body Odor)

WHAT a bitter disappointment the evening had been!

Allen had been politeness itself. But somehow, Janet knew she hadn't made a good impression on this new admirer.

Whose fault? Janet didn't know then. But there's no "B.O."—no body odor robbing her of popularity now. Let her tell you what she learned about this treacherous fault and the easy way to end it by keeping perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—yet no "B.O."

"Like everybody else, I perspire more freely in summer. But I never dreamed I was guilty of 'B.O.' Now I realize why. We become insensitive to ever-present odors. But the pores constantly give off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart daily.

"So Lifebuoy's my only toilet soap now. And I love it! No other toilet soap has ever made me feel so completely, thrillingly clean—and safe—as Lifebuoy. Its refreshing, anti-septic lather purifies pores so deeply, 'B.O.' is impossible.

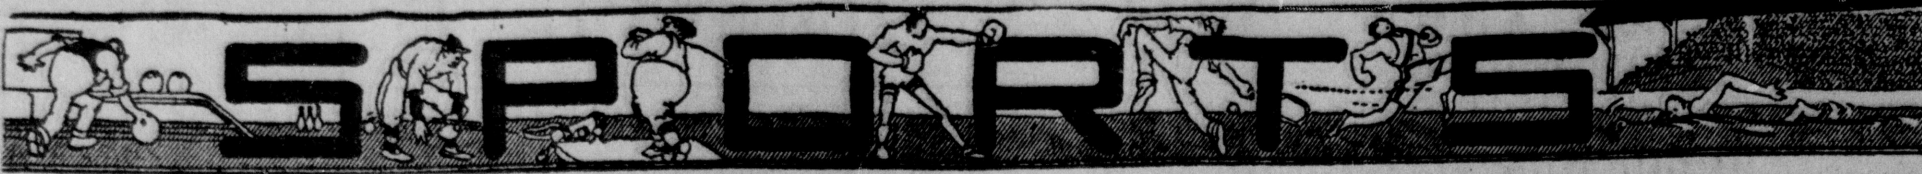

"How clear Lifebuoy keeps my skin, too. And it's a real safeguard against germs. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent, that vanishes as you rinse, tells you it purifies."

AX POISED OVER BIG LEAGUE BOSSES

'Battle Of Rivers' Features O. C. A. C. Show

JIMMIE MEETS 'ARIZONA JOE' ON TOMORROW

Tomorrow night Matchmaker Henry Foust stages his biggest and perhaps his greatest boxing bout at the Orange County Athletic club—a battle between two of the foremost Mexican welterweights now parading in this section—one Jimmie Rivers and the other Arizona Joe Rivers.

They are down for 10 rounds or less at 145 pounds with the veteran Arizona Joe Rivers a slight choice to defeat the local lad in spite of the fact that Jimmie has been coming fast of late and according to smart ring critics should soon take a place along side the best of the coast crop.

In selecting Arizona Joe to lead Jimmie to the barrier, fight followers point to the former's record and the fact that in four attempts to wallop Bobby La Salle, Arizona Joe turned the trick twice, lost an unpopular decision the third time and only because he was stale dropped the final encounter. Besides the La Salle battles, Rivers has fought Ace Hudkins, Mushy Callahan, Bill Rogers, Joe Layman, Johnny Lamar and others.

The local kid can't begin to compare records with his opponent; yet Jimmie has plenty in his favor. He is the younger, the stronger and hits quite a deal harder than the Arizona fighter.

Also "Santa Ana" Rivers will be in there tomorrow night knowing that a win for him over Arizona Joe will mean that untown promoters soon will be bidding for his services and the returns will mean much from a financial standpoint.

Both lads completed training to-day with a light workout. Jimmie Rivers has been taking things easy for the past two days and boasts that he is in the best shape of his career. Reports from Arizona Joe's camp in Los Angeles are to the effect that the invader also looks exceptionally good.

The supporting card has plenty of promise. Tony Moreno, flashy little Orange county bantamweight who surprised last week by turning in a winning fight against "Mexican Mickey" Walker, goes to the post in the four-round semi-final against Bat Brown. Moreno is tabbed to win. The fight, however, ought to be worth watching.

The four bring together a whole raft of local favorites. Four fights make up the prelims.

MORGAN FAVORED TO BEAT 'GOLDIE' HESS

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Tod Morgan, the junior lightweight champion, goes to post tonight a heavy favorite to trim "Goldie" Hess in their 10-round bout at the Olympic auditorium.

Morgan's title will not be at stake since both boxers have agreed to weigh in above the 130-pound mark. Morgan and Hess both are at their best under that poundage but Morgan figures to win at least any night.

Hess's main claim to fame rests in his recent draw with Bud Taylor, the former bantamweight champion, and his win over Santiago Zorilla, Panamanian flash.

Larry Murphy and Leo Hernandez fight the six-round semi-final.

Moreing Of Sacs Would Peddle Club

SACRAMENTO, July 9.—The Sacramento baseball club's Pacific Coast league franchise was on the market for sale today. Its owner, Lewis Moreing, announced after a checkup of the final game of the Hollywood-Solon series yesterday, which he said drew the smallest gate since he took over the club in 1920.

Possibility that the team would be transferred to Stockton or some other neighboring city, was expressed in baseball circles here. "I am willing to sell the team for a reasonable figure, either to be played in this city or some other place," said Moreing, "but nobody is going to buy it when the gate receipts are so low. Unless there is an increase in attendance I am going to make some change to protect my interests."

STOCKBRIDGE IN OLD FORM: S. A. TAMES ONTARIO

There is nothing wrong with Glenn Stockbridge. The tall pitcher just needs work. He pronounced that to the boys at Ontario last night where he turned in a mound masterpiece in beating the Ontario Pirates, 7 to 2, for the Santa Ana Stars' twentieth victory out of 22 night baseball games this summer.

Stockbridge started with the same uncertainty that has characterized much of his work this year but after he got his bearings and his "sinker" began to work the lengthy collegian was the same old stinging submariner of 1923. Ontario got a run in the first and another in the fourth. But in the last five rounds the American leaguers went hitless, unable to get a man as far as first base, while Stockbridge, warming up to his task, struck out five and got the rest on feeble grounders or harmless pop flies.

"Dark Horse" Star. There were other encouraging signs besides Stockbridge's flossy flinging. Wayne Nelson, George Preble and Bill Foote, three Stars who have not been blazing much of a trail with the big stick, came out of their slump in time to play an important part in the victory. They got five of Santa Ana's eight base raps, and they all fielded sensationally, Nelson handling five chances perfectly and Foote and Preble coming up with a couple of nice defensive plays. Ontario got a run in the first. Dowdy was safe on Hill's error and took second on a wild pitch only to be forced at third by Stone, Scott to Hill. Hannah, one of the leading hitters in the American league, then crashed a triple to left center to score Stone. Santa Ana got it back in the second when Foote hit a home run over the left center field fence.

Locals Take Lead. The Stars took the lead in the next inning. Preble singled and was forced at second by Stockbridge. Hill singled to right and Hill to second when Payne let the ball go through him. Schuchard's infield out scored Stockbridge.

Hannah opened Ontario's half of the fourth with a terrific home run to right center that would have just about gone out of the

TIERNANS MAY TAKE CITY FLAG TONIGHT

Needing only a victory, big or large, to be undefeated and undisputed champions of the first half of the Santa Ana City Night Baseball league's split season, the Tiernan Typewriter company Kids battle the El Corral Cowboys in the Bowl at 8 o'clock tonight.

If the humble El Corrales should pull a surprise and win they will force the Tiernans to engage in a playoff for the title with the Kinslow Machine.

Walt Jordan will work for the Tiernans. Manager George Lackaye indicated today. The El Corrales are pretty sure to depend on Horace Snow but Don Williams, the All-American football player who is bossing the Cowboys, may elect to start "Lucky" Lindley, a high school boy.

GROVE IS MODERN EDITION OF WADDELL

THERE NEVER LIVED A PITCHER WHO HAD MORE NATURAL STUFF THAN THE ECCENTRIC "RUBE" WADDELL.

Connie Mack has had two his- tory-making left-handed pitchers in his long day in the baseball business — "Lefty" Grove and "Rube" Waddell. Who do you think is the greater of the two?

That's one that perhaps Mack himself can answer best—and he says Waddell.

"The two are similar in many ways," says Connie. "But in one respect Waddell excelled—heart." Waddell pitched all the harder when a teammate kicked one for a goal behind him. Grove's tendency is to flare up in sudden wrath and shoot it right in the groove.

Waddell didn't bring his eccentricities to the diamond. Grove does, while off the diamond he reminds you of the second assistant janitor of the Y. M. C. A. back at Minonk.

Grove lost one game this year out of his first dozen starts, and if the Athletics did not have such a large hatful of good pitchers Lefty might win 30 games. The pitcher who has even the potential ability to knock off 30 games in this day of skittish ball has something beside a Te Deum, Hosmer, and do not forget it.

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

By Robert Edgren

Every now and then something gives an awful jolt to the moss-grown theory that strenuous athletic competition gives athletes what our old friend Tad used to call "a bum ticker." I don't know how many times I've heard someone say "athletes die young." And there never was a greater fallacy.

Oh, there have been cases. Athletes have "died young," like some ordinary mortals. I remember keenly a very famous oarsman from a great eastern college who went to San Francisco years ago, shortly after graduation.

He was a tremendously powerful man, built like a wedge, with huge shoulders, small waist, thick arms that bulged impressively under his coat sleeves. He could pull a chair to pieces with his hands. In fact he liked to pull chairs to pieces, because when he was drunk the little trick of pulling something to pieces amused him. And he was always drunk. I never saw him sober, and I saw him a great many times during two years.

He Knew His Bars. For about two years he could be found at any time, day or night, standing at the bar in the Palace, or the Grand, or in "Pop" Sullivan's or the Davy Crockett, the Crystal Palace or the Richelieu for this was "before the fire," buying drinks for people and drinking all the innumerable drinks people bought him. At the end of two years he suddenly died.

It was a great shock to everybody, a famous athlete dying that way. People went around everywhere, looking exceedingly solemn and saying: "Poor fellow—he was all burned out inside from the terrible strain of all that rowing. That's why he was so thirsty all the time. Rowing killed him. It must have ruined his heart."

I listened, and believed it. But after wider experience I'll say that rowing turned this youngster out with a marvelous physique, and he threw it away in dissipation.

which was no fault of the rowing. And his was an exceptional case. Athletes who dissipate in later life are very few because competing in athletics gives a fellow a certain pride in keeping fit.

"As Old As He Feels"

Covering the Intercollegiate Regatta at Poughkeepsie late in June, I met a number of very cheerful gentlemen who went out and rowed three miles in the old rowing colors of Columbia University. Some of them were gray haired, and two or three were a bit thin on top, but they were all pink skinned, and full of pep, and there wasn't a fat man in the bunch.

They were the Columbia varsity crew of 1889!

They came up to Poughkeepsie especially for the purpose of borrowing a shell from the youngsters representing Columbia, and showing the boys what a crew of real oarsmen can do after forty years!

They went out and rowed a full three miles—the same distance they had rowed in their last race together back in 1889, on the Thames, against Cornell and Pennsylvania, trailing Cornell a bit at the finish but gathering a share of glory by leading Penn.

They borrowed that shell, and they rowed with what they remembered of the stroke invented and taught Columbia crews by Dr. Walter Peet, Columbia, Mines, 1885, coxswain. They rowed the three miles without any trouble at all, and came back with a sprint. Except for the gray hairs and a slight lack of that long flat stomach that denotes the trained oarsman they might have been taken, at a little distance, for a 1929 crew.

Toss Coxswain in Water. Before starting they pranced down to the float, threw the coxswain, Arthur Hewlett, overboard, and they used to do, and all just as for a cooling swim. Then they placed the shell in the water, all stepped in handily, and rowed off with only a moderate amount of splashing in spite of choppy water. They rowed up the river

Acorns Play Anaheim In L. B. Tonight

Long Beach and Anaheim, Santa Ana's closest competitors in the Orange County Night Baseball league race, will collide in Long Beach tonight. The game will have an important bearing on the championship. A Long Beach win will put the Acorns in a tie for first place with Santa Ana.

Long Beach nosed out Garden Grove, 3 to 2, at Garden Grove last night. Kohler's homer with one on in the first put the Acorns ahead and they were never headed. Dalton pitched for Long Beach, Morrill for Garden Grove.

CLUBMEN TRIM RICHFIELD AND GIVE SHELL RAG

The Auto Club of Orange County is not the champion of the Santa Ana Twilight league but the clubmen decided the championship in the Bowl yesterday.

They defeated the Richfield Oil company, 6 to 4, and their victory definitely, satisfactorily, mathematically and officially awarded the title for the first half of the split season to the Shell Oil company at a time when a Richfield victory would have put that team in a tie for first place with the Royal Dutchmen.

Including yesterday's contest, the final standings of the three leaders for the first half of the schedule follow:

	W. L.	Pct.
Shell Oil Co.	8 1	.889
Richfield Oil Co.	7 2	.778
Auto Club	7 2	.778

Richfield looked like a sure fire winner for two-and-a-half innings. The Oilers made one run in the first on Devine's single and Wim-bush's double; one in the second on Crocker's double and Covington's single, and two more in the first of the third on Lively's double, Wim-bush's forceout and Crafts' homer.

Miller, Richfield's gunner, blanked the Clubmen for two frames but exploded with a bang in the third and his opposition made five runs, enough to win. Bracewell started it with a single. Davidson scored him with a double. Miller forced Davidson at third. Valentine walked and Rowe's double scored both runners. Rash was safe on a fielder's choice and Bove and Rash both came around on wild pitches and Peterkin's single.

Speed's home run in the fourth manufactured the sixth and last Auto Club run.

The first half of the Twilight league season will be completed today when the Excelsior cream-ery goes against the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps in a game postponed from the Fourth of July. This contest will have

SOUTHWORTH IS NOT LIKELY TO KEEP JOB LONG

By DAVIS J. WALSH (I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Having within the last three years ex- communicated one manager who won a world's championship, another who furnished the runner-up in the league race and a third who was utterly unable to do better than win the pennant, it might be interesting to know what Mr. Sam Breadon, of St. Louis, intends to do about Bill Southworth, who today has managed the Cardinals right down to the .500 mark.

This is the most unfashionable relationship the Cards have attained in July since 1924 and, seeing that they have blown 18 out of 21 ball games in the last three weeks, maybe I won't be misunderstood if I mention the fact that Southworth doesn't appear to be an unparalleled success.

There have been all manner of rumors this year about managers who are about to be beheaded. They say Russell Blackburn is breathing his last in Chicago and that old Jackie Atz from the Texas league will take over the White Sox in 1930.

Hendricks Awaits. Out in Cincinnati, the directorate has asked the mugs to bear with Mr. Hendricks until the end of the year, at which time it promises to deal with him in a manner befitting the situation.

Robbie either is or isn't to go to Brooklyn, Maranville may be "sent in" with the Braves and Dan Howley, having made faces at Phil Ball, is said to be destined for Washington, where Walter Johnson is expected to retire at the termination of his one-year contract. Bill Killefer then is supposed to get Howley's job, the idea being that Mr. Ball doesn't like the faces Howley is making, which is fair enough. It is understood that Howley wasn't altogether sure whether he liked Mr. Ball's even before the face-making began.

Anyhow, in all the clamor, there hasn't been so much as a syllable to indicate whether or not Mr. Breadon's intentions toward Mr. Southworth are strictly kosher. However, with the Cardinals in fourth place and maybe going lower, it is assumed that William's job is safe. If only he could finish a game, fighting fifth, in fact, he might even get a bonus.

Not All His Fault.

He doesn't deserve to be tossed out overnight, at that, for barring Gelbert, they didn't give him a club that was meant to go on forever. Pitchers like Alexander, Sherdell and Haines had won for Hornsby and McKechnie in 1926 and 1928, respectively, and had kept the club up there for Farrell in 1927. They were due to bow down under the burden of increasing years this season. And they did.

The town, too, walked out on the club, for some reason or none

TIERNANS WILL PLAY TWILIGHT LEAGUE STARS

Cementing friendly relations between the Santa Ana Night and Twilight leagues, arrangements were completed today whereby the Tiernan Typewriter company, undefeated leaders of the Night league will meet an all-star squad from the Twilight circuit in the Bowl here Friday night.

Kenneth Sturzeneger, manager of the Shell Oil company team, champions of the Twilight loop, has picked the following players to oppose the Tiernans: Jones, Shell Oil, and Korse, Pacific Telephone company, pitchers; Ebersole, Shell Oil, catcher; Wimbusch, Richfield Oil, first base; White, Dennis Printers, second base; Sands, Shell Oil, third base; Ray, Excelsiors, shortstop; Dorman, Shell Oil, left field; Bows, Auto Club of Orange county, center field; Poston, American Legion, right field; Gibson, Dennis Printers, utility.

These Twilight league players have been asked to report in the Bowl tomorrow at 5:30 p. m. for practice.

SANTA ANA ELKS IN BIG GOLF TOURNAMENT

Santa Ana lodge No. 794 was in sixth place today as 13 four-man teams set out for the last 18 holes of the Elks' National golf tournament, being held at Sunset Fields Country club in connection with the B. P. O. E. convention in Los Angeles.

The Santa Ana quartette, Ed Holmes, Jr., Frank Freeman, Z. B. West, Jr., and Lew H. Wallace, took a total of 338 strokes. Los Angeles, Long Beach, Glendale, Monterey and Huntington Park are ahead of No. 794's color-bearers. Holmes led the local team with a 76 which was only three strokes behind the individual leaders. Freeman took 85, Wallace 88 and West 89.

STARS WIN FROM ONTARIO, 7 TO 2

Bowl in Santa Ana, his drive knotting the count at 2 to 2. Santa Ana took the lead again in the fourth. Scott walked, took second on Foote's sacrifice fly to right, third on Wilcox's out and scored when Nelson doubled to left.

Ernie Payne, the U.S.C. hurdler, went to the ridge for Ontario in the sixth. He displayed a drop-ball that broke a foot but he was always in trouble after breezing through the sixth. Nelson's home run, a line drive over the right field screen, gave the Stars their fourth run in the seventh. Schuchard walked in the eighth, stole second, reached third on a passed ball and scored on Scott's infield out.

Payne presented Santa Ana with two more in the ninth. He had two away when Preble singled. Stockbridge bounced back to Payne who had plenty of time but threw wildly to first, Preble going to third and Stockbridge second. Hill's single through the box scored both men.

KEARNS AND ACTOR IN FISTIC BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(INS)—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker and former manager of Jack Dempsey, was nursing a pair of puffed eyes and a sore jaw today, and Charles E. Delaney, an actor, was reported to be handling his nose tenderly as the result of a fist fight between them at a fashionable Los Angeles Country club.

The impromptu battle began, according to Delaney's wife, when her husband resented a remark made by Kearns. Mrs. Delaney said that Kearns was the aggressor in the brawl.

"Kearns appeared to be looking for trouble," she said, "and my husband took care of himself, although he is not a pugilist."

Garden Officials
Would Buy Fugazy

NEW YORK, July 9.—(INS)—Madison Square Garden officials, afraid that Max Schmeling will return to Germany before he will be forced into a fight with Phil Scott, are today negotiating with Humbert Fugazy, promoter of the Schmeling-Scott fight, in an attempt to buy him off.

Fugazy admits that Garden authorities are seeking a compromise, and stated he has been given to understand he can get $20,000 if he will waive his rights to the German's services.

Dundee, 36, Wins
From Young Rival

BROOKLYN, July 9.—Johnny Dundee, former featherweight and junior lightweight champion, won a close ten-round decision over Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, former bantamweight ruler, last night at Dexter Park arena.

The 36-year-old Dundee slipped to the canvas in the first round when dazed by a hard right to the jaw, but thereafter offset 24-year-old Martin's speed and punching by his mastery boxing.

3 Cases Against
Pyle Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(INS)—The "burden" of C. C. Pyle, Bunton Derby promoter, was somewhat lighter today after the state labor commission, because of lack of jurisdiction, dismissed three wage claims against him. They were filed by members of a tent show which accompanied the runners. Two other cases were continued until Thursday.

SONNENBERG, LEWIS IN MAT GO TONIGHT

BOSTON, July 9.—The relative potency of the headlock and flying tackle will be determined at Fenway Park tonight when Gus Sonnenberg, present world's heavyweight wrestling champion and former Dartmouth football star, clashes with Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, former titleholder, with the championship as the prize.

Betting today made Lewis a slight favorite over the champion.

SANTA ANA 20-30'S
WIN FOURTH GAME

Santa Ana was still undefeated today in the Southern California 20-30 Club night baseball league. The local aggregation scored its fourth straight victory in the Bowl here last night when it beat San Bernardino, 6 to 2.

Santa Ana got two in the first and four in the seventh when Robertson walked, Trickey tripled and Westgate and Bows both banged home runs. San Bernardino made both of its tallies in the ninth.

The Santa Ana lineup: Cox, p; Trickey, c; Anderson, lb; Robertson, 2b; Bows, 3b; Finley, ss; Westgate, lf; Louderback, cf; Winters and Ewert, rf.

Here's a Low-Price Tire
You Can't Call a "Second-Liner"!

If that headline is true, you'll admit it's great news for the tire-user.

Well, it is true. Just try the new Goodyear Pathfinder tire and you'll see how completely true it is.

Goodyear considers this great new tire an economic triumph, and is proud to mark it with its name and seal.

You'll agree—when you experience the benefits of the new Pathfinder's massive and rugged construction, its deep-cut thick tread, and of other important features like these:

1. A balanced tire, with all parts equally durable.
2. The powerful carcass is made of genuine Supertwist cord, with its matchless vitality and resistance to fatigue.
3. The heavy tread is wide, designed for slow, even wear, and it delivers exceptional traction and non-skid protection.
4. Tread materials embody the same principles of rubber toughening as distinguish all Goodyear
Tires.
5. Materials, workmanship and inspection are to the strict Goodyear standard. Carries standard lifetime guarantee.
6. Available in both High Pressure and Balloon sizes.

Even at its low price it is superior in most cases to the highest priced tires built by many manufacturers.

Try it—and our money-saving service—and see how much farther your tire money goes than ever before!

Jungle Breath

by Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED
LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMY POTTIS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limy Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer. That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. After a few minutes, Vilak demands of Elise what took place in her house that afternoon and she tells him all the rifles on her place have been stolen. Her overseer, Adolf Schwartz, advises her to leave the country.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII
VILAK made a quick tour of the building, then closely examined the door. "Good lock, all right," he murmured. "Open it, please."

The little German obeyed, exposing a white stone interior, filled with electric wire, storage batteries, detonators, the delicate, more expensive parts of machinery which might prove too much of a temptation to the natives if left in the ordinary warehouses. The floor was bare except for the few drifting leaves inescapable in this region of superabundant vegetation.

But a tiny scrap of green, which to the old man seemed just another leaf, caught Vilak's eye. He picked it up and when the German's attention was concentrated elsewhere put it carefully in his pocket. They strolled outside again.

In a few moments they had left the puffing Schwartz, and were once more inside Elise's brilliant living room.

"Did you go to see Prentiss yesterday as you intended?" Vilak asked as he leaned over and caught a brilliant fly creeping dangerously close to a spider web in the corner. He tangled the insect's legs in the web an instant.

Elise watched him wonderingly.

"What are you doing that cruel thing for?" she protested.

"I'm being kind, not cruel," he reported. "I am trying to show the error of its ways and by demonstrating that webs are dangerous for it, save it from crawling to an unhappy end. But it won't learn. Watch."

He lifted it from the web and set it on the floor. In a moment it was again crawling toward the web, in another the spider had swooped down and before Vilak could prevent, slain it. "It's a cruel law, nature's law, the jungle law, or whatever you want to call it. And the closer we are as men to it so the more cruel are we. Spider kills fly, frog kills spider, little snake kills frog, big snake kills little snake, man kills big snake or another little man. Did you go to see Prentiss?"

She nodded. "After all, we are the only Americans here, and I felt like a beast for not trying to do something for him. As far as I am concerned he can have the land he's on for good. I won't dispute it."

"Did you see him?"

"Yes, and no." She was silent a moment. "I shan't try again, alone."

Vilak grunted. "Humph... what happened?"

"He came running out of his house, opened the gate, and set that enormous mastiff of his on me. If I hadn't been a fairly good tree climber it wouldn't have been very pleasant."

Vilak took out his cigarette case and smoked thoughtfully. Nunnally and Elise talked quietly. The old man was enchanted by her charm and intelligence. He added his persuasions to those of her cousin that she leave Porto Verde as quickly as possible, either to return to the United States or to take up her residence in some civilized part of Brazil. She only shook her head smilingly. The talk drifted to their plans for the night and then to Prentiss again. Elise, after hearing that the two men intended visiting his fazenda, remarked quietly that she would go with them.

Vilak heard. His gaunt, odd-shaped head jerked forward. "News to me," he mumbled. "Afraid I'll have to contradict it."

"I'm afraid that I'll have to contradict you in turn, esteemed cousin. I'm going."

"Haven't you had enough happen to you when you went out there in the daytime? You want more trouble?"

"That's not the question." She brushed back a few wisps of hair that had strayed over her dark olive forehead. "It's merely that I've made up my mind about a few things where I've been weak and foolish before. In the past when you have gone out on your dangerous expeditions here I've done nothing except sit on my veranda and lazily read a novel. I'm not going to do it any longer. I can't with a clear conscience. I'm responsible for bringing you down here. The Victorian period is over. That's the one thing that you, with all your wisdom, can't seem to understand. A woman's as good as a man, as bad as a man, as brave as a man."

Vilak put a pellet of betel on his tongue and rose to go. "The harem doors now open wide, the foolish wives to foolish freedom stride," he quoted.

"Talk away, if sarcasm makes you feel more superior. But with all due respect to you it won't change my intention in the slightest. I'm going... must you insist on chewing that dreadful betel?"

"Sorry, I must. And with equal regret I must also announce that you shall not come with us. Seriously," he said with finality as he neared the door. "I'm not in the slightest doubting your courage or questioning your intelligence, for which I have the highest admiration. I simply have a very strong conviction—" fundamentally it may be based on prejudice, I admit—that whenever women have any connection with crime except as a motive, trouble quickly follows.

"I can't take you with me. Try to understand! And knowing your disposition I might add that if you attempt to follow, you'll be endangering all of us, mostly yourself. I'll be compelled to send you back just as you throw rocks at your dog who insists on following you down the road. Not because you don't love your dog, and wouldn't like to have him along, but because you know the chances are that he'll be killed by an automobile. Now, please be sensible."

He pressed her hand gently, strolled to the door and returned with a bundle, part of which he gave to the old man, part of which he put on the floor at his feet. There are boots and gloves for you, Nanny," he said. "Get into them. And put your raincoat on now. I know you'll tell me it's hot but put it on anyway."

He helped the old man into his saddle, leaped in himself, and, waving a half-amused, half-troubled goodby to his cousin who stood peering after them, a delicate sil-

New State Law Requires Proof of $11,000 Financial Responsibility

Under Assembly Bill 593, which was signed recently by Governor Young at Sacramento, California, automobile owners and operators are required to show proof of their ability to respond in damage cases, involving personal injury or death subject to a limit of $5000 for any one person injured or killed and $10,000 for the injury or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and $1000 property damage. Briefly this bill sets forth that an operator's license will be suspended if judgment rendered is not satisfied within fifteen days' time, and further provides that judgments must be paid up to the amount stated in the law in order to secure renewal of license to operate car. Further proof of ability to respond in damages in the future must also be given.

State Forestry Heads Make Tour Of S. A. Mountains

INSPECT WORK ON FIREBREAKS AND ROADWAYS

For the purpose of inspecting the work being done by Orange county in the matter of fire protection, firebreaks and motorways, county officials and state forestry department officials were guests of D. Eymann Huff, owner of Hewes ranch and a member of the state forestry board, yesterday morning on a tour of the Santa Ana mountains.

Starting at 9:45 a. m., the party, composed of M. B. Pratt, state forester from Sacramento; Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors of Orange county; W. H. Coup, state department of forestry, San Dimas; J. K. Munhall, district ranger, Corona; W. E. Albinson, county fire and game warden; L. H. Anderson, supervisor of the Cleveland forest, San Diego; H. F. Gilman, state board of forestry, San Dimas; D. Eymann Huff, state board of forestry, and Lotus Louden and John Dunlap, newspapermen, made the trip into the mountains. The route led past Irvine park, through Black Star canyon and Santiago canyon to the top of the main divide.

The aim of the board of supervisors and forestry officials is to complete motorways for getting equipment and men to forest fires in the quickest possible time. At the present time, a road is being built from San Diego peak to San Juan peak, with about 10.3 miles already constructed.

In past years, the state or federal government has done little toward safeguarding the valuable watersheds in this section. However, county leaders started agitation on the subject and interested the state forestry board in Orange county. The two southern members of the forestry board, D. Eymann Huff, of El Modena, and H. F. Gilman, of San Dimas, have been instrumental in gaining favor for the projects and arranged the trip yesterday to show the progress being made.

Starting this month the state is going to appropriate the sum of $5000 a year for 1929, 1930 and 1931 for use in building and maintaining firebreaks and roads. The county and the government each will pay an equal share in the cost in the future. The government has done all the work up to date. After the system of roads and firebreaks is completed, the county will take complete charge of maintenance.

The board of supervisors is taking an active interest in the work through the efforts of Willard Smith, chairman of the board and an active booster for the projects. Frequent stops were made on the trip yesterday to inspect the work being done, although hazy weather hampered vision to a large extent. After returning, about 1 p. m., the party was served a turkey dinner in the spacious Huff home on the Hewes ranch. Fire-fighting problems, recent cases, arrests and other topics of special interest were discussed during and after the dinner.

Southern Cross Arrives At Rome

ROME, July 9. — (UP)—Capt. Charles E. Kingsford Smith, piloting the famous trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross, arrived here today on his flight from Sydney, Australia, to London. He landed at Littorio airport at 2:35 p. m. and expects to leave at dawn tomorrow, arriving in London in the afternoon.

S. A. Auxiliary Glee Club to Compete for Trip to National Meet

Interest of Santa Ana American Legionnaires and of the Legion auxiliary in the approaching state convention, to be held in San Diego, August 13, 19 and 20, has been considerably quickened by the fact that the Santa Ana organizations will be represented by the Legion Auxiliary Glee club, that musical organization which, in the two years of its existence, has grown to be one of the most popular in the community.

For the Glee club will sing at the convention sessions, in competition with similar organizations from the northern part of the state, and the group adjudged to be the best by a carefully chosen group of critics and judges will have the honor of representing the state at the national convention, to be held in Louisville, Ky., September 20 to October 3. The Santa Ana Legion Auxiliary Glee club was the first of its kind organized in California and was formed for the entertainment of Legion and auxiliary members at their sessions. Mrs. George Parker was the first director and when she resigned, her place was taken by Cecil Fross Willits. Soon after the club's formation, requests began to come from service and fraternal organizations for program numbers and the Glee club gained in fame it also gained in finish and ability.

Fill Paid Engagements
Some six months ago the singers became so much in demand that it was decided to fill only paid engagements, since most of the members are young business women whose time has a certain money value. Response was very encouraging and in the ensuing interval the club has had 26 paid engagements. Proceeds are devoted to the purchase of new music and to the costume fund. For uniform costumes were adopted over a year ago. Last year, at the state convention in Stockton, the singers created a very favorable impression, both by their singing and by their appearance in smart sports dresses of deep blue silk with orange ties. For the evening sessions of the 1929 convention they have added graceful evening gowns of soft blue satin, gold trimmed, with gold kid slippers.

In entering the competition with other clubs formed since their own success, the members will be asked to sing one number of their own choosing and one number selected by the judges as a song for each club to sing. The club prides itself on the variety of its repertoire, for all types of music are sung, including sacred music for memorial services, classic, secular and the lighter songs for encores. There are several excellent soloists in the organization, also, including of course, Mrs. Willits, whose rich contralto voice is one of the best-liked in Orange county.

Officers Elected
Every effort is being made to put the organization on a paying basis and for that reason a regularly organized staff of officers and committees has been appointed during the last few months. Mrs. Willits, as director, has the assistance of Mrs. Gertrude Collier, treasurer; Mrs. Edith Schanell, secretary; Mrs. Myrtle Cain, business chairman; Mrs. Lucille Brothers White, publicity chairman; Mrs. Ethel Brown and Mrs. Josephine Lykke, costumes; Mesdames Inez Halber, Kay Rasmussen and Cecil Willits, music. Miss Ruth Armstrong, while not a member of the auxiliary, has been "adopted" by the Glee club and has proven invaluable as accompanist, giving of her time and talent most generously. In the approaching competition, at which every member must be an auxiliary member, Miss Armstrong's place will be filled temporarily by one of the Glee club members.

To help swell the "convention fund," in case the singers are selected to go to Louisville, the club has given two very enjoyable dances in the Legion hall and plans are being completed for a public garden and bridge party, to be held Saturday afternoon, July 13, in the home of Mrs. A. F. Crowell, 902 West Santa Clara avenue. Table reservations for this affair have been most gratifying, according to Mrs. Dean Collier, active in formulating these plans, and those who have not yet made reservations may secure tickets from any member of the Glee club.

INDORSEMENT GIVEN SWEDISH VACATION PLAN

City Schools Superintendent J. A. Cranston has indorsed the Swedish vacation plan for school children, details of which he learned through a communication from John B. Osborne, American consul general in Stockholm, Sweden.

Cranston, who is a member of the California Council of Education and one of the Southland's leading educators, believes in the Swedish vacation travel school for school children, whether in groups under competent leadership or as individuals accompanied by their parents. He has made a study of the system introduced in Sweden with a view to introducing it in this country.

The foreign plan features a special train, operated by the government railways in co-operation with school authorities. The school children, with their leaders, are able to travel at minimum cost, living a week or longer on the "home train," as it is called.

In this way the summers are spent by the children in travel accompanied by a study of their own country's resources. The "home train" is stationed and sightseeing parties leave it for special tours.

PRESIDENTS' HATS

Presidents of the United States from Roosevelt to Hoover have at no time or on no occasion ever been hatless men, records show. William Henry Harrison, the only president to go hatless, died a month after his inauguration of pneumonia contracted while going bareheaded during the ceremonies incident to his induction to office. Indeed, hats have been prominently identified with the private and public life of our chief executives.

SISTERS OFFER PROGRAM FOR B. P. W. SESSION

With their entertainment period given over entirely to music, members of the Business and Professional Women's club yesterday shared an enjoyable luncheon meeting in St. Ann's Inn, where Miss Ethel Coffman, July program chairman, presented Lucille Harrell Bond and her sister, Miss LaVerne Harrell, as guest artists.

The song program offered by this pair of talented sisters was preceded by a short business session, conducted by the president, Mrs. N. E. Mayhill, during which attention was called to the annual state convention, to be held in Pasadena, September 5, 6 and 7. Many of the clubwomen announced their intention of attending some of the sessions, especially the Saturday afternoon and evening events. The club has been asked to enter contestants in the beauty show, which will be a special convention feature and in which beauty of character and achievement will score equally with regularity of features.

Miss Martha Whitson announced that with all bills paid for the recent southern district convention, held in this city, the finance committee had a fund of over $227 to turn into the club treasury.

Mrs. D. B. Peterson and Dr. Mary Wright named Sunday afternoon, July 21, as the date for the garden party and tea to be served in Mrs. Peterson's charming garden in Laguna Beach, "Lugar de la Paz." Members who have not yet done so should notify Dr. Wright of their plans to be present by telephoning her at 3122.

Mrs. Bond opened the musical program with a colorful Spanish solo, "The Maids of Cadiz," with Miss Harrell at the piano. Her lovely soprano voice then was heard in "Let Miss Lindy Pass" and an old Negro spiritual, "Deep River." She then took her place at the piano as accompanist for Miss Harrell, whose deep contralto was especially striking in Curran's "Dawn" and in "Invitation."

Mrs. Bond also accompanied the clubwomen in songs led by Freda Moesser Barger.

NEW 'LONG GREEN' NOT AS LONG AS OLD 'LONG GREEN' BUT IT'LL BE JUST AS GOOD

Santa Ana plutocrats who have purchased new bill folds in readiness for the smaller sized currency which Uncle Sam is issuing this year are to have opportunity to put them into use tomorrow, according to announcement made today by the government.

For the treasury has authorized the federal reserve banks to make available tomorrow, to commercial banking institutions of their respective districts, limited amounts of the new currency, and Santa Ana banks are expecting to receive their individual allotments from the federal reserve bank in Los Angeles in time to place the bills in limited circulation coincident with such a movement all over the United States.

This word was not received by banking institutions here until today and while they were aware that the notes were to be made available tomorrow by the federal reserve banks, it was not believed that they would be in actual circulation much before the middle of the month, according to J. L. Bascom, of the First National bank. Allotment of notes to each bank will be based upon the individual assets of each. The First National bank, for instance, with assets of $11,000,000 in round figures, should receive approximately $44,000 in the new currency, according to estimates given today by C. M. Rowland, assistant cashier of that institution.

This will be released slowly and it is expected to be along time before the reduced sized bills will completely replace the old, which have been issued in their present form and design for over 65 years. The new sized currency requires one-third less paper and ink, it was stated. The old currency will not be called in, according to J. L. Bascom, but, as it becomes mutilated and unfit for circulation, will be sent in to Washington to undergo the process with which every visitor to the national treasury department is familiar. As it is withdrawn from circulation, it will be replaced gradually by the newer form.

The first issue of the new notes will include all denominations from $1 to $20 and all kinds except national bank notes. The latter, in small size, will be printed and issued in order of charter numbers, beginning about July 15, according to advices from Washington. Small sized gold certificates and federal reserve notes in denominations above $20 will be issued at a date to be announced later.

SEEK PUBLIC'S CO-OPERATION IN RAT DRIVE

The third week of the campaign to exterminate rats in Santa Ana had started today and was marked with a statement by W. G. Knox, city manager, commenting on the results and stressing the necessity for full co-operation of all concerned so that the work may progress rapidly and with far-reaching effect.

"To date there have been 320 calls and inspections made," Knox said, "and 217 properties have been ordered processed. The city council, at an official session on Monday, July 1, indorsed and heartily approved the work being done in this city along this line."

The men in charge of the campaign are competent and accredited experts in the work of rodent control, according to the city manager, who urges the active co-operation of everyone in stamping out the rat evil at this time, when there is extended an opportunity to have a thorough clean-up in the city along that line.

LEGION FIFTH AREA MEET TO BE HELD HERE

Santa Ana members of the American Legion, under the direction of Post Commander Franklin G. West, are busy this week arranging for the fifth area meeting of the Legion, which will be held in the Santa Ana Legion hall at 8 o'clock next Saturday night. More than 200 delegates and Legionnaires from all over the district, which includes San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties, are expected to attend the meeting, at which matters of importance are to be considered relative to the area's stand on various matters which will come before the state convention of the Legion, in San Diego, next month. Pre-caucus activities regarding the political phase of the state meeting also are expected to occupy much time and attention at the meeting here Saturday. A decision as to whom the area's voting strength of 140 will be given in the race for the various state offices at the San Diego convention is expected to be reached.

Wilbur Getty, past commander of the Santa Ana post and of the fifth area and chairman of the state committee on national defense, is candidate for the office of state commander. Getty was defeated for the highest state office at the convention last year by Commander Frank Belgrano.

Richard Welch, of Riverside, is candidate for area commander, the position now held by Charles Nice, of El Centro, who will preside at the meeting here Saturday night. Robert Miller, of Fullerton, is candidate for commander of the twenty-first district.

Asilomar Conference Of Girl Reserves Is Interesting

That this year's Asilomar conference of Girl Reserves was the most interesting held in years was the statement of Miss Dorothy Cartwright, local Girl Reserve secretary, who returned home Sunday, accompanied by those girls who represented Santa Ana at the convention. They included the Misses Wilda Rohrer, May Hasenberger, Doris Bolles, Carol Smith and Helen Slabaugh.

Miss Cartwright stated that the outstanding discussion group at the conference was that on "The Personality of Jesus," led by Howard Thurman of Atlanta, Ga. Next in popularity were the discussions directed by Miss Amanda G. Nelson of the national staff, the local secretary said.

Miss Cartwright herself played an important part in the success of the convention as she was a living group advisor as well as assistant advisor in the handicraft classes led by Mrs. Ruth Henley of the Southwest museum in Los Angeles. She was also in charge of the technical publicity hours.

The conference theme, "International Relations," was carried out by the girls who lived in tent houses that represented various nations of the world.

This theme was used as the motif for the day of folk festivals with which the conference was concluded. On this day, each girl was dressed in the costume of the land for which her tent had been named and groups from each tent presented the folk dances of that country.

The affair closed in the evening with a candle lighting ceremony that was very lovely, Miss Cartwright said. The service took place in the chapel where representatives from every nation in the world came forward with gifts of peace and friendship for their countries. As each girl stopped before the altar her candle was lighted and when every one was burning the girls, who filled the entire chapel, sang "Follow the Glean." Y.W.C.A. song.

Forty-Fifth Anniversary Of Wedding Celebrated

The forty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Chris McNeill of 1103 North Broadway that took place yesterday was the occasion for a delightful appointed dinner party given by Mrs. M. A. Patton and Mrs. H. W. Nelson, daughters of the couple.

Those enjoying the attractive affair included Mr. and Mrs. McNeill, Dr. and Mrs. Patton, Miss Thelma Patton, Murray Mack Patton, Mrs. H. W. Nelson, and Miss Eleanor Hopkins of Visalia.

Mrs. McNeill is the member of an old pioneer family and is the daughter of the late H. Goepfer who came to Santa Ana in 1876. Mr. McNeill came to this city in the early 80's from Prince Edward Island, Canada.

Old English Theme Is Used For Pretty Affair

Carrying out the motif expressed in the delightful atmosphere of the James M. Anderson home on South Garvey street were the decorations used by Mrs. Anderson one night recently when she and her husband were hosts at a pretty bridge party.

The Anderson home is reminiscent of an old English cottage and the flowers used about the living rooms were gaily colored cosmos, gladioluses and cormorals. Bridge tables and appointments for the supper hour were all in keeping with the Old English theme.

When bridge scores were added at the close of the card games it was found that William Stauffer of this city and Mrs. Melville Richardson of Los Angeles were high, each one receiving an attractive prize.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blanding, Mr. and Mrs. William Stauffer, Miss Jean Goodwin, Fred May of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bouton, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ewing, Miss Marian Smith and Lewis Andrews of Los Angeles.

Local Pastor Officiates At Wedding Held in San Pedro

The Rev. Samuel Edgar, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, officiated at the wedding ceremony Saturday morning of Miss Helen Rice of Long Beach and R. Robert Orr of San Pedro. The quiet service was held at La Venta Inn, Palos Verdes, near Santa Monica.

Presiding at the nuptials, Miss Josephine Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Ball of this city, who is among the most popular of Orange county pianists, played three Chopin preludes, Fauré's song of the local minister, sang two baritone solos which had been chosen by the groom who is himself a singer of repute. They were "I Am Thy Harp" and "Noon and Night."

Fifteen intimate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were wedding guests. The bride made a charming picture in her gown of rose-lavender shades with a corsage of violets. Her chic hat was designed in deep orchid straw and the purse, gloves and accessories were in harmonizing hues. She carried a bouquet of pink bridal roses, and was attended save for little Joanne Lawrence, who acted as flower girl.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony and was served in the breakfast room of the spacious clubhouse. Tiny ring bearer place cards enabled guests to find their places about the elaborately decorated table. An abundance of vari-colored summer flowers were used in floral arrangements and featured bright bachelor buttons.

Mrs. James Hughes Is Honored at Party

One of the jolly parties honoring Mrs. James Hughes, before she and Mr. Hughes leave for Boston, was held Friday and Saturday of last week, when the Standard Bearers club of the First Methodist church, held a house party at the home of Mrs. E. P. Ehlen at Laguna Beach. Friday afternoon was spent in swimming and other beach sports, while the evening was given over to fireworks.

After the fireworks, the jolly group adjourned to the cottage, where a council was held, in which Mrs. Hughes was presented with a beautiful necklace and memory book, by the club members. Saturday was also spent in frolicking on the beach, and it was a happy party that returned to this city Saturday evening.

Those enjoying the happy affair were Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes, Ramona Smith, Rutile Julian, Betty Howell, Esther Vogt, Virginia Sawdye, Esther Soule, Helen Bower, Charlene Lowell, Dorothy Grizzle, Florence Ulrich, Edna Hearn, Doris Schofield, Pontell Rennessler, Lorene, Nadine and Miriam Samuelson.

House Party in Mission Village Is Enjoyed

The beautiful Spanish home of Mrs. Walter Eaton, situated on Mission Hill in San Juan Capistrano was the scene over the week-end of an unusually enjoyable party. Those taking part in it were Mrs. Ross Cochran and Mrs. Jack Palmer of Hollywood, Mrs. R. Hoestetter of Costa Mesa, Mrs. Leslie Mitchell, Miss Frances Potts and Miss Gertrude Potts of Santa Ana, and Miss Marguerite Wallace of Long Beach.

Adding to the interest of the occasion was the inspection of the collection of Mexican, Spanish and Indian antiques that are in the Eaton home. Many of these were found by Mr. and Mrs. Eaton on various of their trips into Mexico.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

One of the most delightful meetings of the Delta Alpha class of the First Methodist Sunday school, was the picnic supper held Monday evening at Irvine Park, when V. L. Steward, popular teacher, and Mrs. Steward entertained the class with their annual steak bake. Each member brought a covered dish for the affair.

There was a short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Iva Olson, who opened the meeting with prayer. Besides the members of the class, the guests were Dr. George Warner, George Warner, Jr., Charles Warner, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Thead, C. W. Olson, Miss Alice Davidson and Miss Alta McGinnis.

Many Guests Greeted At O. E. S. Chapter Meeting

Many Eastern Stars from distant jurisdictions were present last night in the Masonic temple, to enjoy the meeting of Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S., conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright, worthy patron and worthy matron. Among these visitors were Mrs. Doty of New Mexico; Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Kaiser of South Dakota, and from nearer home were Mrs. Smalley, matron of Anaheim chapter; Mrs. Pearl Kelly, matron of Fullerton chapter, and Mrs. Thweate of Glendale.

Artistic decorations of the chapter room had been arranged by Mrs. Winbush and Mrs. George Shippe. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Folger had charge of refreshments, and were aided by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Okey Jensen, Mrs. Gladys Adams and Mrs. D. A. Casey.

Mrs. T. R. Vervton arranged the program, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present, and was a recital offered by the Harrell family. Quartet numbers by S. L. Harrell and his daughters, Lucille Harrell-Bond, and the Misses LaVerne and Lillian Harrell; trio numbers by the three sisters, and solos by Mrs. Bond and Miss LaVerne Harrell were featured, while Mr. Gilbert Harrell served as accompanist.

Anticipated future events of the chapter include tonight's picnic at Irvine park; a garden party and covered dish supper on Friday evening, July 19, at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sylvester, El Modena, and a Harmony Bridge club bridge party for husbands of the club members, on Friday night, at the Dr. C. T. Cleland home, 1010 North Broadway.

Dinner at Las Ondas Is Friendly Affair

A friendly little affair of last night was the dinner given at Las Ondas cafe in Laguna Beach by Dr. F. W. Slabaugh and Mrs. Paul Bailey, complimenting Mrs. Slabaugh and Mr. Bailey, the occasion being their birthday anniversaries. Besides the delicious menu that was served was the large birthday cake, topped with lighted candles, that had been made for the dinner by Mrs. Bailey.

Interesting Visitors Are Complimented By Local Folk

For several days Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroff, of 315 E. Camille street, have been enjoying a visit from their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jensen of San Antonio, Tex. This event has been the occasion for many happy reunions of various members of the Jensen family, gathered from neighboring cities in honor of Mr. Jensen's visit, the latter having been absent from Santa Ana for an interval of 22 years.

A family gathering and dinner party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jensen last Saturday evening, at the home of their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Froster of Orange, with the entire family, including 12 cousins, present.

Those enjoying the happy event, in addition to the hosts and the honor guests, included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold H. Jensen and son, John, and Mrs. Winona Jensen, Dickson of Los Angeles, Mrs. Ida Jensen and Philip Froster of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroff, Henry Schroff, Mrs. Ida C. Morris and Miss Rose Young of Santa Ana.

Sunday afternoon a similar celebration was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jensen of this city, the former an uncle of Mr. Jensen, and a well known pioneer of this city. Similar festivities are being planned in honor of the visitors by various members of the family throughout this week.

Though residents of San Antonio since 1922, and for years naturalized citizens of the United States, it is of interest that both Mr. and Mrs. Jensen are natives of Flensburg, Schleswig-Holstein, situated on the border-line between Denmark and Germany, best-known as the birthplace of Dr. Hugo Eckener, builder of the famous Zeppelin airship, also a personal friend of Mr. Jensen.

Mr. Jensen is a writer of considerable ability, a contributor to numerous magazines and newspapers, and formerly associate editor of a Texas newspaper. He has written several books important as records of the World war, while his poetry is included in an anthology of representative German-American poetry recently published. He has traveled extensively throughout his life, visiting practically every country in the world, including China, South America, Africa, Egypt, Alaska, England and all countries of Europe.

Although a resident of the United States for the past 22 years, at the opening of the World war, Jensen happened to be on a German merchant ship captured by a British war vessel. He was sent as a civilian prisoner to Knockaloe on the Isle of Man, where he was forced to remain four and a half years, together with 30,000 other men. Through the influence of Robert Clark, American welfare worker, Mr. Jensen, an engineer of ability, was put in charge of an industrial training school established in Knockaloe. He held this responsible post during the war-period.

at Irvine park at 6:30 o'clock, with the chapter furnishing the ice cream and coffee of the supper menu. Members and their children were to assemble in the park this afternoon where a program of games and contests was to begin at 3 o'clock. Prizes were to be awarded in these events in such manner that every child would receive a gift.

Local Women Attend Bridge Party in Long Beach

A group of Santa Ana women motored to Long Beach Saturday afternoon where they were among the guests at a beach party given by Mrs. B. W. Skiles of that city. Mrs. Skiles is a cousin of Mrs. J. N. Zulauf of 726 South Flower street, Santa Ana.

Card tables had been arranged on the sands for the delicious luncheon and the card games that followed, and bright touches of color in the striped parasols and the smart sports frocks of the guests made the scene particularly attractively.

When bridge scores were added it was found that Mrs. E. M. Coon of Santa Ana was high with Miss Olive Hansen of Pasadena second and Mrs. Albert D. Lane of this city low. Each received a suitable prize.

A happy feature of the afternoon was the hour devoted to swimming when a goodly portion of the guests enjoyed a dip in the surf. Santa Ana women who attended the party included Mrs. Zulauf, Mrs. Albert D. Lane, Mrs. H. D. McVain, Mrs. William Maderia, Mrs. E. V. Cole, Mrs. Jessie Seales, Mrs. Charles Hawthorne and Mrs. E. M. Coon.

Aten-Ray Nuptials Are Read by Bride's Father

With more than 50 relatives and friends present, Miss S. Ruby Aten, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Aten of 220 East Amerige avenue, Fullerton, was married to S. Clarence Ray, son of Mrs. Julia Ray, of Jerome, Arizona, Saturday night.

The couple stood before a fern banked altar flanked by baskets of ferns and gladioluses.

The Rev. Aten, retired Methodist minister, read the ceremony assisted by the Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, pastor of the First Methodist church, Fullerton.

Miss Aten was attired in white georgette and her veil was caught at the back of the head with a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and maiden hair fern.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. William Ray. Mrs. Ray was dressed in pink georgette and she carried orchid sweetpeas. The flower girls were Virginia and Ruby Hillmiller of Brea, former students of Miss Aten.

Georgia Weaver played Mendelssohn's wedding march and accompanied William Stedman when he sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning." Following the ceremony, a reception was held.

Miss Aten has been a teacher in the commercial department of the Huntington Park high school for several years. Her husband is employed by the General Petroleum company at Santa Fe Springs. They will make their home in Huntington Park.

The rocket stick kept falling fast and slow. "Oh, we can't last if we keep dropping down like this. 'Twill take our breath away. I wish we'd never shot up high to play around the clouded sky. I know of lots of other spots where I'd much rather play."

The other Tynmites didn't speak, but they all heard somebody squeak. "Don't give up yet, but be real brave and hang on to that stick. We'll try for all that we are worth to stop your crashing down to earth. You're traveling so very fast we'll have to act real quick."

Of course the Tynmie knew it was a Sky Tot crying out, because there was nobody else nearby. This gave them all much hope. Said Scouty, "Keep your nerve up now, and we may all be saved somehow. Perhaps the Sky Tots plan to throw us out a coil of rope."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Coppy. "That sounds dumb. Why, even if the rope did come it wouldn't mean a thing to us. 'Twould only fall down too. I think we'd better hope and pray that we land on a load of hay. At least it would be soft and I am sure 'twould nicely do."

Just then the rocket stick cracked loud and rather frightened all the crowd. They all let go and then the stick sailed quickly out of sight. This left the Tynmites in the air, still falling toward they knew not where. A Sky Tot then flew up and said, "Things soon will be all right."

At just that moment they all stopped, and into something soft they flopped. "Where are we?" shouted Coppy. "In a cloud," a Sky Tot cried. "We Sky Tots pushed this cloud around to save you falling to the ground. And now that you are in it we will give you all a ride."

(The Tynmites have a sky ride in the next story.)

RECORD PERFORMANCE

A winning streak by the New York Giants that started on Sept. 7, 1916, and ended Sept. 30 in the second game of a double-header with Boston is a record. There were 26 victories in a row, 10 of them shutouts.

The best of golfers have their off days. In Birmingham Hagen missed a one-yard putt on the first hole, but he sank a 10-footer on the second.

houette against the barred door, set off to the road again.

They retraced their route until they neared the bridge which crossed the river. A red glow showed a few hundred yards down the railroad track. "Quiet," said Vilak. "Never saw that before. Let's have a look at it."

They stepped their horses nearer and through the brush saw five or six torches burning brightly by the light of which some twenty or thirty men were hurrying about, pitching a tent. They were the customary motley of black, Indian, and half-breed, with an occasional white individual who appeared to be white. They were clad in the nondescript clothing of the typical Brazilian laborer, here a once brilliant purple shirt hanging out over vivid green breeches, there a tattered strip of cloth which had been manufactured as an American suit of underwear.

Most were the dregs of their races, with cruel eyes and vicious, degenerate faces. The teeth of some of the Indians had been filed into sharp points. "Must be section hands," Vilak remarked. "Those in the States aren't the gentlest creatures in the world but they can't hold a candle to the ones they're down here. The cream of the country. Wonder if the railroad sent them up on account of the flood. Think I'll find out."

They dismounted, stepped through the brush and reached the open. In a little depression of the land a bright fire was burning. Nunnally looked at it. His wrinkled face became puzzled. "Er...why have they that...er...that?" he asked in a whisper. "It's hot tonight...very hot. And they're not using it to...er...melt anything. It's...singular...er...singular."

Vilak stared thoughtfully at the blaze. "Fires can be used for other things than heat," he answered. He bent down and drew something out of the hot clinders. This he held before the chemist. "Perhaps that, for instance. Mean anything to you?"

The old man's sleepy eyes narrowed behind his glasses. All he could see was what appeared to be a small bit of charred wood no different than the other pieces of branches which formed the glowing...it...er...means nothing...er...nothing."

Vilak tossed it back into the fire. (To Be Continued)

There is adventure ahead of Nunnally and Vilak. The night is filled with a thousand unseen dangers.

'Caste' Will Be Offered by KFVB

Next in Herbert Heyes' season of radio dramatizations of plays which are gone but not forgotten comes "Caste," to be broadcast at 8:30 tonight over KFVB.

Heyes has done a lot of his acts for the NBC and is an actor of long and honorable service on both stage and screen. He usually manages to invigilate some film celebrity into his cast each week.

There is no doubt but what his productions, to date, have raised the standard of radio drama here about 10 notches, which is slightly more than a nautical mile.

Radio visit will be paid in the colorful broadcast, "Neapolitan Night," through the NBC coast-to-coast system between 7 and 7:30, Pacific standard time, tonight.

With Giuseppe di Benedetto, Italian tenor and director of the ensemble, will be heard Nino Fucile, baritone; Joe Biviano, accordionist, and a mandolin quartet. This will be the second time that Pacific Coast radio followers have heard "Neapolitan Nights."

This program will be broadcast through Pacific coast stations KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KGO, Oakland, and KPO, San Francisco.

ENCOURAGING BOOK PURCHASES

The magazine, "Plain Talk," at least is convinced that publishers and authors are having hard sledding, for it has undertaken a campaign against book borrowing since, it says, "The practice cuts an author's royalties in half" and affects the "prosperity of the book publishing business upon which depends the culture of America."

"Plain Talk" presents a logical business talk against book borrowing, but rather destroys its forcefulness, though retaining its own self-respect by saying "Plain Talk is not addressing the people who have neither the means nor the facilities for getting books, but those who have either or both and do not realize the colossal bad results of an almost universal carelessness."

To their intense regret, most people who do considerable reading are financially unable to buy all the books they want. There are not many people who, with enough money for enough books, would prefer borrowing a book to buying it. As a rule, people who like books like to own many of them. They would have them pouring in upon them continuously. Eugene Field, who liked books, spent more for them than he could afford and wore a coat with specially large pockets so he could sneak his books home, past his wife who, poor benighted soul, liked food and raiment for the children better than books.

People who like books buy books instead of candy and pop and movie tickets and gasoline and clothes and furniture. To them there is no thrill like the thrill of possessing another book. Some of them even measure the cost of everything they purchase, not in dollars and cents, but in the numbers of books the contemplated expenditure would buy. There are not many like that. There should be more. It would undoubtedly help America's standards of culture.

Maybe some of these real book lovers can be reached by this appeal of "Plain Talk," which puts book-buying on the basis of expenditures for charity. It may ease the conscience of those who have been saving out a bit from their book budget for charity.

But we may see develop the same sort of conflict as that between the confectioners and tobacco people after the latter advertised with the slogan, "Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet."

Marion Talley's new farm is 640 acres large. Even a saxophone player would be safe in practicing art on a farm that big.

FRANCE HESITATES

The French parliament is debating the Medon-Berenger war debt pact which would ratify the debt agreement between France and the United States. The committee, to which it was referred, reported favorably by a slight majority.

However, the propaganda against ratification continues. The objection to the measure is that it binds France to pay its debt to the United States regardless of the payments received from Germany. The opposition would insert a reservation that the debt to the United States should be paid only as, if and when Germany makes payment to France.

This would be merely a species of repudiation. Nobody denies that France borrowed the money and promised to pay. There was no condition attached to the promise. The idea of paying national debts only on condition that national credits be received from others is so foreign to American theory of honest business practice that we find it hard to believe that France is seriously considering it.

We have lent our good offices through the Dawes plan and now through the Young plan to make it possible and probable that Germany will pay. We have heroically scaled down the French debt and postponed for a long period the final payment, but this does not seem to satisfy.

European writers and publicists, if not governments, have constantly sought to tie up the debts due the United States with German reparations, and we have constantly repudiated the suggestion. No European nation has as yet taken the stand that France threatens, and it is difficult to believe that our ancient friends will thus dishonor themselves.

France, herself, is far from accord on this matter of repudiation. Senator Joseph Cailiaux, speaking in his constituency in St. Paul-Gautier, a short time ago said:

"Premier Poincare has conceded before the Chamber of Deputies that M. Berenger, at Washington and I at London, obtained all the concessions for which we can hope. Why should we wait further for the United States, which, we must remember, has already reduced our debts by half and volunteers further reduction which is beneath the dignity of our nation to demand?"

M. Cailiaux, in closing his address, said that he was surprised to hear those "who professed to be super-patriots, advising the country to renounce her pledge and thereby not only vanish the good name of France, but gravely affect the nation's credit."

And finally, Cailiaux presented an argument which comes as a slight shock. "Who knows," he said, "whether in ten years or twenty years we may not have the pressing need to ask financial collaboration from precisely those same great nations which today are our creditors?" Was it war he was foreshadowing or was it merely political argument? If the latter, he evidently considered his statement an appealing argument.

ELIMINATING TIME

A regular trans-continental service between Los Angeles and New York, enabling travelers to pass from one point to the other in two days' time, has been inaugurated. We have had service for some time between Chicago and New York, enabling the business man to leave Chicago at 2:30 in the afternoon, and arrive in New York at 9:00 o'clock the next morning, practically losing no part of a business day.

The present arrangements will enable men to lose only two business days between the extreme limits of our great country, and at week ends it will be necessary to lose only one-half day's work, Saturday morning, as offices in both of these cities close at Saturday noon. Literally, we cannot spend our week-ends at the extremes of the continent, but men will be enabled to work week about with practically no lost time.

Most of us wish that business would not speed up. It is going faster now than our inclination to keep up with it is increasing.

The expense of these trips at present precludes their general use, except to the wealthy and for business emergencies, but undoubtedly as the number of passengers increases, the rates will drop until it will be quite popularly used.

It was a great day in the history of transportation in the United States. It marks a real epoch. There is not much additional opportunity for greater speed than we now have. Some day it is probable that the night train transportation will give way to the airplane, so that there will probably be a full half-day saved at either end of the journey, but further than that the elimination of time will undoubtedly be impossible.

MISPLACED SYMPATHY

It is strange that so many prominent people give vent to their spleen in condemning the dry law and its enforcement, and have so little to say about the law violators. This is particularly striking when one knows that the rigidity of the law which brings out this condemnation is due to the necessity by the government of check-mating those who are determined to violate the law.

The difficulties which the law-abiding encounter in respect to the legitimate use of alcoholic liquors is entirely due to the necessity of circumventing the scheming in obtaining this poison for beverage purposes.

Undoubtedly there are extremists, and unfortunately the extremist on either side soon ramrods himself into the position of leadership, and then the followers or those who believe in the general principle involved, are forced to either criticize suggestions or defend impossible positions.

It is well, however, for all to remember that every enactment which appears to be of an extreme character was recommended by prosecuting attorneys and others to meet situations which they had found in their work of law enforcement.

Literary Friendships

Christian Science Monitor

An essayist explains the ephemeral vogue of the popular writer on the theory that his is not a nettlelike friendship. Clever and entertaining, perhaps, he is welcomed as a new acquaintance, comfortable of approach and inclined to our own views; and each newcomer of the same sort easily displaces the preceding one, through the single virtue of novelty.

It may be that the literary friendship, as well as the more personal one, is rare that can bring us new ideas and set us thinking in new grooves; that can present old experiences in a new light, or impinge upon our thinking with a truth which compels us either to struggle to hold to our cherished points of view or to bestir ourselves to advance to a new mental vantage.

Dislike of changing established opinions—unwillingness to grapple with new ideas and to think them through to inexorable conclusions which oblige us to conform our living to them—accounts for many more things than the ephemeral vogue of the popular writer, it shows why the world at all points goes forward with reversion eyes. It clings to the old, and therefore needs the prod of a nettlesome truth until, having at length grasped its significance, thought advances for the sheer love of the truth.

Touching somewhat upon this latter point, but from a different angle, another reviewer explains the permanency of good literature on the ground that the greatness, the lasting influence of the literary friendship—and this is true also of the personal friendship—is found in the quality of love, in the great-heartedness which gives forth a sincere expression of the deep experiences of the heart. It is admittedly the love of God and for all mankind, shining through its pages, that makes the Bible the world's masterpiece, while it supplies men with the true concept of friendship.

The nettlesome friendship—literary or personal—that dares to express a truth which disturbs our mental inertia—has its uses. But more clearly defined, the truth which intrudes upon our false mental peace and drives thought onward, whether it will or no, is synonymous with love; for nothing save love can impel a process so ideally desirable as a perpetual going forward, even though some commotion precedes conformity to the truth, with its resultant harmony. We cannot mourn the outgrown ideals of today; neither shall we long rely on the new ones of tomorrow. Emerson, whose work partakes of the quality of permanency, declares of the tendency to linger in the ruins of the old, "We sit and weep in vain. The voice of the Almighty saith, 'Up and onward for evermore!'"

Why It Is

San Diego Union

A mystery which has confounded science for hundreds of years was solved yesterday in the great city of London by Dr. Octavia Lewin, a notable Englishwoman and a successful ear, nose and throat specialist. Men don't use their heads, on the average, with any degree of efficiency whatever. Dr. Lewin discovered why. It is because men wear collars. Collars restrict the circulation of the blood, and that in turn cramps the style of the masculine brain. The result is that mental inefficiency which is so dominant a characteristic of the normal male. Women, Dr. Lewin revealed, are advancing beyond men because women refuse to wear things around their necks.

The Globe-Trotter!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE WRONG TIP

When I was in my middle 'teens,
With neither brains nor cash to spare
I pondered much on ways and means
To make myself a billionaire.
I had small doubt that boundless gold
I should be able to secure
For I had frequently been told
That Rockefeller started poor.

If he, without a helping hand
And not a dollar in the bank,
Could in a few brief years command
Preeminent financial rank,
I thought that I could do the same
And dreamed of the approaching day
When I should earn the world's acclaim
By giving princely sums away.

Alas for all those fatuous dreams;
My hopes of riches were in vain.
In spite of all my plans and schemes
No fortune did I ever gain.
The wolf is camped outside my door
Arrayed in an expansive grin,
And it may not be long before
He gnaws the lock off and steps in.

And now I'm told that when John D.
Began his riches to accrue
Way back along in '83,
That he was fairly well-to-do.
I haven't got a cent to show;
I'm low in mind and sick at heart;
It's too darn bad I didn't know
He had me beaten at the start.

ONLY FAIR

The handsome thing for the Republicans to do would be to pay the Democratic campaign debt. They profited by the way the money was spent.

CHEAP

How much Marion Talley paid for her farm is not stated, but it is understood that she got it for a song.

FINANCIAL SUGGESTION

American tourists spend in Europe every year more money than is needed to pay the installment on the war debt. Why not keep them home for a few years, and then we could afford to comply with the European plea that we cancel it.

More Jobs In Time of NeedBy WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Governments—Federal, State and local—should spend less money on public works when prices rise and business begins to boom; more money when business depression sets in. This is part of President Hoover's policy for preventing unemployment.

More money for what? For whatever is most needed, as determined in the usual way. Projects are already planned for national highways, inland waterways, parks, buildings, harbors, reforestation, and reclamation of waste lands. Construction can be pushed forward or held back, as the general business situation requires.

Nothing but the expense holds them back now. Nothing else kept us from taking flood prevention measures in the Mississippi Valley long ago.

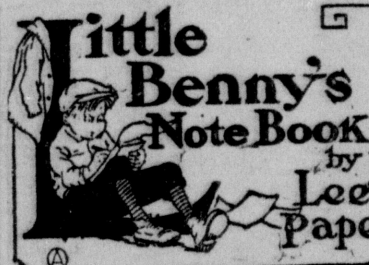

Such projects can be so financed as to increase wages throughout the country. Thus we can sustain business and at the same time acquire wealth.

Public works built in that way might actually cost the country nothing; for if they were not built the country might lose more than they cost, through the idleness of men and capital.

Imagine what would happen if the Federal Government—the largest consumer, the largest spender, in the world—announced its intention of carrying out this plan. Most people would expect that business would be good; little danger of inflation or deflation; just an orderly market, keeping up with production.

And because of the widespread conviction that business would be good, nearly every private business concern would so act as to make business good.

After supper ma started to darn holes out of stockings, especially mine, saying to pop, Honesty is the best policy, Willyum.

That's quite a thawt, when did you think that up? pop sed, and ma sed, Its not original, any something happened this afternoon that made me forcibly realize the grate truth of it. I was downtown shopping and I happened to notice a waying machine outside a little dry-goods shop and the way I felt I had an intuition that my weight had gone down quite a few pounds lately, so I put a cent in the slot and beheld what was my horror to see that I was apparently to all intense and perposes 5 pounds heavier than I was 2 weeks ago, and just then at that scyological moment like an angel of mercy the storekeeper stepped out, ma sed.

What, out of the waying machine? pop sed, and ma sed, Certney not, hilly, out of the store, and he told me that the machine was 8 pounds fast or in advants or whatever you want to call it, so insted of being 5 pounds heavier I was reely 3 pounds lighter, and the storekeeper sed he was terribly sorry about the scale being temporarily incorreet and he offered to refund me my cent, but natuarely I wouldnt hear of such a thing, and he invited me to come and look over his stock, and although I reely didnt need anything I bawt several little articles in his store just to prove to him that honesty was the best policy, as I started out by saying.

Its a grate racket pop sed. What, how do you mean? ma sed, and pop sed, Just imagine how many disappointed stout ladies that berd pops out on every day with his life saving information, and how many sales he makes.

Willyum P. Potts, I think your terrible to attribute such a gallant action to such a sordid selfish motive, ma sed, and pop sed, Well perhaps he has a sick wife and 13 unlucky children and he's doing it for them.

Perhaps nothing of the kind and I wont listen to another word, ma sed. Wich she didnt, starting to look at the advertizements in the paper insted.

STATESMEN AND PROPHETS

"Why is it," I was asked today, "that we cannot draft into service as statesmen the philosophers and prophets who seem to have such profound and moving insight into the needs of society?"

There is—it is obvious to all who read—a marked difference in quality and tone between the utterances of even the greatest statesmen and the great philosophers and prophets.

But I doubt that humanity would profit from drafting the philosophers and prophets into service as statesmen.

For, by and large, they would once in office, become like the statesmen we have known.

For the jobs of statesman and prophet are different, and the man is colored by the job, and rightly so.

In his "Leaves from the Notebook of a Tamed Cynic," Reinhold Niebuhr makes these suggestive and penetrating comments:

"In specific situations, actions (of statesmen) must be judged not only in terms of absolute standards, but in consideration of available resources in the lives of those whom the (statesman) leads."

"It may be well for the statesman to know that statesmanship easily degenerates into opportunism and that opportunism cannot be sharply distinguished from dishonesty."

"But the prophet ought to realize that his higher perspective and the uncompromising nature of his judgments always has a note of irresponsibility in it."

"Francis of Assisi may have been a better Christian than Pope Innocent. But it may be questioned whether his moral superiority over the latter was as absolute as it seemed."

"Nor is there any reason to believe that Abraham Lincoln, the statesman and opportunist, was morally inferior to William Lloyd Garrison, the prophet."

"The moral achievement of statesmen must be judged in terms of the limitations of human society which the statesman must, and prophet need not, consider."

There are two mistakes we are forever making, viz:

We want our statesmen to be as courageous as our prophets.

We want our prophets to be as cautious as our statesmen.

But progress depends upon statesmen practicing the possible while prophets preach the perfect. Copyright, 1929, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I believe that a child differs from an adult in every particular. I believe too, that because of this fundamental difference children are to be treated differently than adults. For instance:

A child has not the power to vision his future. He cannot in the nature of things, know what lies ahead of him if he makes himself ill. Nor can he measure the importance of making a certain grade by the time he is of a certain age. Nor can he understand the need of accomplishing a given task in a set time to an acceptable standard—acceptable to society as it is now organized. Yet he must master these necessities if he is to live successfully.

There are people who do not agree with that notion. They have a vague idea that children ought to be free souls and that when we impose duties and standards we are fattening the free souls of childhood. Now nothing so fetters a child's soul as ignorance, unfitness, unpreparedness.

An adult failing to meet a certain situation can think rapidly and perhaps turn failure into success. Experience and training rise to his aid. But a child cannot rise to meet this occasion unless he has had definite training, correct information, disciplined control to influence him.

There is such a thing as habit formation. No theory however gentle and lovely can overlook that awkward fact. It is easier for a child to form habits of drifting, of starting out on a joyous excursion into the fields of knowledge and losing his way in pleasant pastures. Isn't it the teacher's duty to keep him to the path? He can rest his spiritual eyes on the distant horizon, he can rest a bit by the wayside, investigate a little in the bypaths—but he must stick to the main road and arrive at his destination—or be a tramp.

An intellectual tramp is a sorry sight. "Oh, he has the artistic temperament. You cannot hold him to a standard of work as you would an ordinary child."

There are no ordinary children. Every child needs a definite task, a definite routine, definite training along his OWN road. I would not ask the business boy to get a medal in art. Nor would I hope for honors in science from the child whose gift lay in form and color or music, or literature.

But I would teach a child the truth from the start. You get nothing for nothing. Anything you get without paying full value in terms of personal effort is worth just that—nothing. No field of effort lets you escape drudgery. Power is rooted in hard work. You can choose your field but you must learn your trade in the old way, by the sweat of your brow.

The free child is the disciplined child. The highest discipline comes through work well done to a definite standard. His OWN work, but done to society's highest demand.

both sides by an unseen foe, while the French attacked in front. Braddock fell, mortally wounded, and the British regulars were cut to pieces. The Virginians, with Washington at their head, saved half the British army of 1,200 men.

One hundred and seventy-four years ago today, on July 9, 1755, General Edward Braddock was mortally wounded and his British regulars routed in a battle near Fort Duquesne in the French and Indian war.

England sent Braddock to Virginia to lead an army of British troops against the French who were claiming the Ohio valley. Accompanied by Colonel Washington, who was later to lead the continental army, Braddock advanced from Fort Cumberland and began to climb the rough ridges of the Alleghenies planning to attack Fort Duquesne.

Three hundred ax-men cleared the way. Behind them came the British regulars, a glittering army of scarlet and steel. Braddock despised the backwards method of fighting and disregarded Washington's warning of possible ambush. Suddenly, the English advance was greeted with a terrific war whoop and was fired upon from
